Counsel Declares Shop Closing By-law Ultra Vires

Stuart Henderson Questions Status Of 1919 Measure

Seeks Dismissal In Case Against James Little, Charged With Not Closing Store According to Regulations, Before Magistrate George Jay In City Police Court; Point Is taken on Procedure of By-law Construction; City Prosecutor Asks Adjournment.

Validity of the "Shops Early Closing By-law" of 1919 was questioned in City Police Court this morning by Stuart Henderson, counsel for James Little, charged with not keeping his shop closed continuously from 6 p.m. to 5 a.m.

Mr. Henderson declared the by-law ultra vires, basing his declaration on section 9 of the Shops Regulations Act, which provides that "every by-law (under the act) shall take effect at a date named therein, being not less than one week or more than two weeks after the passing thereof."

The Municipal Shops Early Closing By-law was passed on March 24, 1919, and the date named for it to go into effect was May 15. This was contrary to the act, Mr. Henderson declared, asserting that the only time the by-law could have gone into effect would have been between the dates of April 1 and 7 of that year.

"The conditions under which the by-law could have been put into force were not complied with, and I hold it is ultra vires," Mr. Henderson said.

CASE ADJOURNED

City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison asked an adjournment of the case to investigate further the point, which he declared had been argued in court shortly after the first passing of the by-law.

Storekeepers in all parts of the city are affected by the case, Magistrate George Jay pointed out. He would like to hear a thorough argument of the matter before rendering any judgment, he said.

Mr. Little was charged with an offence on November 2 of this year.

Opening the prosecution, Mr. Harrison put in certified copies of by-law 2033, the Shops Early Closing By-law and by-laws 2089 and 2324, which are amendments to the first. He also put in as an exhibit a duplicate of Mr. Little's trade license.

POLICEWOMAN TESTIFIES

Miss Margaret Walker, policewoman, was the prosecution witness, testifying she had gone to the shop of the accused on the corner of Pembroke and Quadra Streets at 6.30 on November 2. She had bought some provisions, half a pound of tea, half a pound of honey and three cans of sardines, these articles being exhibited in court. The accused was in the store at the time she said.

LONG PRISON TERMS GIVEN

In Vancouver Mr. Justice Murphy Deals Sternly With Narcotic Offenders

Vancouver, Nov. 8—Condemning the narcotic drug traffic in vigorous language, Mr. Justice Murphy in the assize court here to-day imposed a sentence on Low Chee Luong, convicted distributor of cocaine, of seven years' imprisonment in the New Westminster penitentiary, a fine of $100 and payment of $20 costs, and in default of payment of the fine and costs, an additional nine months' imprisonment.

Other sentences imposed were:

Johnnie Wing, selling morphine and cocaine, five years' imprisonment, a $200 fine and $20 costs, or six months additional.

Pong Joe, distributing cocaine and morphine, five years' imprisonment and a $200 fine and $20 costs, or six months additional.

Russell C. Harris, breaking and entering, two years.

Alexander Swanston, false pretences, three years.

Aris Pantages, seduction, two years.

Perry H. McPhelps, common assault, sentence suspended.

August Charles Smith, theft, sentence suspended.

MUST BE STAMPED OUT

"This narcotic drug business is the most nefarious kind of criminality one can indulge in," said Mr. Justice Murphy to Pong Joe. "It not only kills the body but the soul of the victim. The Canadian people are determined to stamp out the traffic, and the only way is to impose heavy sentences."

"If we can't get the higher-ups we will attempt to discourage the ped-

DISORDER IN LEGISLATURE IN AUSTRALIA

Women Interrupt Victoria State House During No-confidence Discussion

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 8 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)—Scenes of disorder unparalleled in the parliamentary history of the State of Victoria were witnessed in the Legislative Assembly to-day when Sir William Mcpherson, leader of the Opposition, moved a vote of no confidence in the Ministry of Premier Edmond Hogan. The Government was charged with failure to appoint additional police to protect the community from violence arising out of the recent waterside workers' strike. Sir William declared the recent disorders were largely due to the Government's administration of the police department and its failure to give emphatic assurance that volunteers would be protected at all costs.

TAKEN FROM BUILDING

An organized party of women in the gallery repeatedly interrupted the Opposition leader, shrilly attacking the Opposition and Premier Hogan alike. They blamed the Premier for the wounding of stevedores by police. Finally ten of the women were removed from the building by order of the Speaker.

Explosion In Mine In Bosnia Kills Workers

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Nov. 9.—An explosion in a coal mine at Kakani, Bosnia, to-day, took the lives of an undetermined number of miners. Twelve men, seriously injured, were taken from the mine.

WORKER LOSES LIFE

Haney, B.C., Nov. 8—Struck by a cable attached to a donkey engine, P. Fallon, a wood splitter employed at Camp No. 4, Alco, of the Abernethy Lougheed Logging Company Ltd., was instantly killed yesterday. The man, was about sixty years of age, was single and, as far as is known, had no relatives in this province.

Chicago Has Its Eighty-ninth Bombing of Year

WILL FLY IF WEATHER PERMITS

From New York City to Rome, Italy, is the goal of Capt. Peter Bonelli (left) and Co-pilot Roger Q. Williams (right). Their monoplane is the famous Columbia, in which Chamberlin and Levine flew from New York to Germany. They made two starts, but failed to get away, damaging the machine both times. Now they are tuning it up once more, but they admit the November weather over the Atlantic will determine whether they will attempt the flight this year.

Nine persons are in a serious condition in the Lynn Hospital and several others are believed to be missing. Firemen this afternoon were searching the ruins of the demolished plant for more bodies.

BRITISH HOUSE SPEEDS WORK

Baldwin Hints General Election May Be Earlier Than Expected

London, Nov. 8 (Canadian Press Cable). — "The general election may take place rather earlier than later," was Premier Stanley Baldwin's cryptic announcement in the House of Commons last night when he submitted a motion appropriating all of the time of the House until Easter on account of weight of Government business.

The motion was resented by private members generally, but was passed by a vote of 174 to 136.

E. Thurtle, Labor, Shoreditch, described private members as reduced to "mere voting robots" through excessive party discipline.

ON KNEES OF GODS

"The motion puts the Opposition in some difficulty," declared Ex-premier David Lloyd George, Liberal leader. "If we support it, we lose the private members' time and if we oppose it we put off dissolution, to which we are looking forward. Whether we shall be pleased when it is over is on the knees of the gods."

He suggested a conference to consider the general question of allocation of private members' time, and this was welcomed both by the Premier and Ex-premier Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader.

RED CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH AFRICA NOW IS FOUGHT

Nationalists Called on to Defeat Bolshevists Working Among Natives

London, Nov. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—From London, Johannesburg and Moscow comes light on the speech of Hon. J. T. Roos, a member of the Government of the Union of South Africa, at Johannesburg last Saturday when he attacked what he termed Bolshevist attempts to put "new fangled ideas" into the heads of the South African natives.

A Russian detailed plan of campaign in South Africa to create an independent black republic is described by Riga correspondents, who say the Communist Internationale has issued final orders to the Communist Party in South Africa for an intensified agitation among the blacks.

These instructions, it is stated, are based on the personal report of Miss Rebecca Bunting, South African comrade, who visited Moscow especially to describe progress of the racial war in South Africa.

The Friends House" in London has now issued an appeal for donations to the "native legislation group."

The appeal is signed by ten persons, including Willoughby Dickinson, as-

NEW U.S. CONSUL-GENERAL IN LONDON PRAISES CANADA

London, Nov. 8—Albert Halstead, the new United States Consul-General in London, was the guest of honor at a luncheon of the Pilgrims' Society yesterday.

Canada's prosperity and the friendly relations between that Dominion and the United States were described by Mr. Halstead, who was Consul-General at Montreal from 1920 till he was transferred here.

"After my many years in Canada," said the Consul-General, "I feel justified in saying, if Canada is an interpreter of Britain to the United States and the United States to Britain, that as an American of many years residence in Britain and Canada I am in an exceptional position to interpret Canada to you.

"It is very gratifying to refer to the continuing growth of the Dominion. After the close of the Great War, to which Canada's contribution was superb but which left a heavy indebtedness and the necessity of readjustment, Canadians met their problems with courage and confidence and for several years their situation has been improving until now the Government is paying off its debt from revenue. Prosperity prevails and optimism is general."

SEES PACIFIC COAST OUTLET AN ACTUALITY

Peace River Link Must Come Soon, Says Premier Brownlee of Alberta

Urges Closer Co-operation Between British Columbia and Alberta

"I am convinced that the time is nearer at hand than was dreamed of a year ago when a Pacific Coast outlet for the Peace River territory will be an actuality. Such an outlet must come.

"It is inconceivable that the produce of so great a territory should continue to move eastward to Edmonton before turning westward to its natural outlet to world markets.

"It is not the urgent needs of to-day, with transportation as it is, but the development of the future, that I speak of. That development should come soon and the people of British Columbia and Alberta should see to it that it does come. It does not require much of a prophet to say what the Peace River country will be in a short time."

These are the views of Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta, who was a visitor to Victoria to-day, on the opening up of a western route to the markets of the world for Peace River products. He made but a short stay in the city, leaving by the afternoon C.P.R. boat for Vancouver on his way to Edmonton.

CONFIDENT OF FUTURE

"We are confident of the future because we believe that the world is coming to better times since the war and Canada must largely share these better times. The hope of Alberta now lies in the development of Pacific trade and the western route. To-

STRIKE ENDED IN VANCOUVER

Carpenters Idle Since Oct. 8 Will Go Back to Work To-morrow

Vancouver, Nov. 9.—Vancouver carpenters who have been on strike since October 8 will return to work at 8 a.m. to-morrow, it is announced. The decision resulted from conferences between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the General Contractors' Association, held yesterday.

Under the terms which were accepted by both parties the agreement will be in force until April, 1930, with the usual provision for wage negotiations at intervals. There will be no discrimination against either union or non-union men and the scale will be at an hour.

Members of the allied unions who walked out in sympathy with the carpenters, including electricians, pile-drivers and structural steel workers, are included in the agreement for resumption of work.

Satisfaction was expressed in Victoria to-day by Hon. W. McKenzie, Minister of Labor on the receipt of a telegram from J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor, informing him the strike in Vancouver had been settled.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE TO GO ON AS PLANNED

Committee Announces No Change Will Be Made in Cenotaph Ceremony

The Armistice period committee wishes to correct the impression that the committee is considering a change in the programme for the Armistice memorial service which will be held at the Cenotaph on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock.

In the past years the veterans' parade and memorial service have usually been held on the Sunday afternoon nearest to November 11 because it is impossible for most veterans to parade on a week day. The committee has embraced the opportunity this year, when the tenth anniversary of the signing of armistice falls on a Sunday, to arrange the veterans' memorial service at the Cenotaph at the time of the Empire-wide ceremony of two minutes' silence.

TO POST BUGLERS

The committee states that it has done what it could to assist the churches in the due observance of the two minutes' silence. Through the courtesy of the naval and military forces, the militia, and the Eagles' band, buglers will be posted close to as many of the big churches as possible to sound the "Last Post" and the "Reveille" at eleven o'clock.

"The committee feels that on this Sunday which is only one in an average of 365 Sundays when the day coincides with Armistice Day, Christians who are in the custom of worshipping in the sanctum of a church will raise no objection to a body of world war veterans worshipping in the open and doing homage to their deceased comrades in the shadow of a cenotaph which to them means very much more than just a monument of bronze and stone," said one of the committee this morning.

The Victoria Ministerial Association was notified of these plans by a letter sent by the committee on September 17, and up to the present time the officials of the committee have heard of no objections except a telephone message from Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell to the secretary late Wednesday night.

Isolated Parts And Ships to Be Linked With City

Provincial Telephone Company to be Formed by B.C. Telephone Company to Enter New Field; West Coast Settlers and Officials in Logging Camps and Mines Will be Able to Call Direct by Use of Wired Telephone and Radio Telephone Circuits.

Believing that the only feasible way to give long-distance telephone service to many of the outlying parts of British Columbia is by means of radiotelephony, George H. Halse, chairman of the board of the B.C. Telephone Company, announces that plans are under way for the formation of a separate company to enter the radiotelephone field.

"Under its charter the British Columbia Telephone Company has no power to go into the radiotelephone business," explained Mr. Halse in a statement. "It has become obvious to the executives of the company, however, that the radiotelephone offers the only practical method of giving service to many outlying points, and consequently we propose to form a separate company to carry out this work. The name of the new company will be the Provincial Telephone Company, and a charter will be sought at the next session of the Provincial Legislature. The necessary advertisements to comply with the legal requirements are now being published.

ISLAND IS CONSIDERED

"During the past Summer I visited the West Coast of Vancouver Island for the purpose of studying the question of giving telephone service to the many industries scattered along that rugged shore. Through an arrangement with the Dominion Government it has been possible to give telephone service—of a sort—to some of these places over the Government telegraph lines after telegraph hours and we have further plans for improving this serivce, but still it will not take care of a great number of points which cannot be reached by wire. The conditions that prevail on the Island exist also on the mainland coast, where we find such points as Ocean Falls, Prince Rupert, Anyox, Stewart and so on incapable of being reached by telephone wires from the south owing to the obstacles which would make the cost prohibitive. Other examples are the Queen Charlotte Islands and the Peace River country.

"The executives of the B.C. Telephone Company have been watching carefully the development of radiotelephony, and we believe that in this branch of the communication art lies the solution for our problem of serving such communities as I have mentioned.

MAKE COMBINATION

"Our plan is to operate radiotelephone service in conjunction with our present wired service, so that a party

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT IS COURT ISSUE

Chinese Under Dentention Here Nearly Year and a Half Seeks Release

Court Hears Story of Paul Wise's Stay in City Jail; Case Adjourned

Paul Wise, Chinese graduate of McGill University, linguist and journalist of an Ontario Chinese daily newspaper, made his second bow to British Columbia courts to-day, when he appeared before Chief Justice Hunter on an application for his discharge from imprisonment for debt.

One year and five months ago, on June 7, 1927, Wise was arrested on a writ of capias and has been detained in the city jail ever since. Punctually every Tuesday a Victoria law firm, appearing for the plaintiffs in a civil suit, deposits $7, the cost of keeping Wise in jail for one week. If the payments fail he would be released, but the payments never fail, and over $500 has been expended in this manner since the doors first clanged shut behind the defendant in the action.

HAS NO ASSETS

This morning, before the Chief Justice in Supreme Court Chambers, M. B. Jackson, K.C., moved for the release of Wise on the ground that the defendant had no assets with which to satisfy the original debt on which he went to jail. The Province of British

444 Votes in U.S. Electoral College Made Sure as Presidential Count Continues

Washington, Nov. 8 (By Associated Press)—The United States Presidential election of 1928 was passing into history to-day, leaving in its wake the greatest electoral majority ever cast for any candidate.

The full measure of the overwhelming victory which sent even rock-ribbed Democratic states into Herbert Hoover's column was still to be completely ascertained, but from returns which rapidly were becoming complete it was evident the new President will come into office with the greatest Electoral College majority in the history of the United States and with a popular vote exceeding any before it.

Likewise the country has still to learn—and it no doubt will be days before all the facts are known—how great a part the vote played in giving President Hoover a Republican Congress. That there will be an appreciable increase in the Republican majorities both in the House and Senate has been demonstrated but the returns still are incomplete in the case of numerous contests for membership in the House along the Mason and Dixon line and in some other sections where party lines are not clearly defined.

In Virginia two districts were still in doubt to-day, with the chances leaning toward adding Republican congressmen to the state's roll. The Old Dominion already had contributed two

BRIAND MAY BE FRENCH PREMIER

Barthou and Steeg Also Are Mentioned in New Cabinet Negotiations

Paris, Nov. 8 — Raymond Poincare to-day continued to resist the pressure of friends and supporters that he form a new Cabinet. In the meantime President Doumergue consulted members of Parliament and a great majority of them persisted in the opinion that the retiring Premier was the only man who could bring order out of the parliamentary chaos.

The President consulted both extremes of the Chamber of Deputies—the Socialists and members of the National Party. The Socialists, who have remained aloof from the conflict, reserved their opinion as to the formation of a Government. All others declared M. Poincare should be called to power again.

In the event of Poincare remaining obdurate, it is expected the President would be led to consider a combination headed by former Foreign Minister Briand, former Minister of Justice Barthou or Theodore Steeg, Resident-General of Morocco. It is said in political circles those three would not be confronted with the same difficulties as M. Poincare.

DEBT AGREEMENTS

Somewhat of a surprise was created in parliamentary circles when a bill calling for ratification of the Caillaux-Churchill agreement for payment of the war debts of France to Great Britain was distributed among the deputies.

M. Poincare drew up the document before the fall of his Cabinet and there was speculation as to whether he had intended to force ratification by making it a question of confidence.

A bill calling for ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement on the French debt to the United States also was distributed.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY

To the Editor:—Perhaps one should take it as granted that Victoria's theatre-goers of a somewhat remote period will be pleased to learn that recently such New York celebrities as Mayor Walker, Charles Daner Gibson and 250 other admirers made memorable the fiftieth anniversary of De Wolf Hopper's first appearance on the stage. Daniel Frohman, who in 1884 engaged Hopper for Madison Square Stock Company, and the Rev. Randolph Ray, pastor of the "Little Church Around the Corner," were the speakers at the testimonial dinner. After returning thanks in tear-begetting and side-splitting terms, for the fifteen hundredth time, Hopper recited "Casey at the Bat," and S. J. Kaufman presented the comedian with the alleged identical bat with which Casey struck out. While partaking of dinner Hopper became the recipient of a rare condiment. It came over the wires from Edna Wallace Hopper, long a divorcee. "Heartiest congratulations from one of your six wives and one who ought to know. I shall be here to congratulate you on your hundredth anniversary."

STORM LOSS AT LAKE NIPISSING

Estimated at North Bay, Ont., Damage is More Than $100,000

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 8.—Lake Nipissing was calm to-day following the most furious windstorm that has ever swept its wide expanse in the memory of pioneer residents of this city.

A high west wind, starting Tuesday, lashed the waters against the North Bay shore for more than twenty-four hours. A survey of the lake front reveals destruction and damage that is estimated at more than $100,000.

The situation is West Ferris municipality is perilous, owing to the storm damaging breakwaters and shore guards in the Summer cottage section to such an extent as to render the village of West Ferris liable to inundation should another severe blow develop before the freeze-up.

THREE KILLED BY LAVA FROM MOUNT ETNA

First Deaths on Island of Sicily Resulting From Eruption Reported

Many People Driven From Homes; Rail Communications Threatened

Mascala, Sicily, Nov. 8—The first deaths in the eruption of Mount Etna now in progress were reported to-day, three men, a father, son and grandson, being the victims.

The three returned to a doomed house in this town to get household goods and slept there overnight. The morning found them surrounded by molten lava and their fellow townsmen were forced to watch death overtake them from beyond the lava lake, helpless to give them aid.

Catinia, Sicily, Nov. 8—With a molten stream of lava like a hungry dragon at their backs to spur them on, hundreds of persons to-day were fleeing from this region around the eastern base of Mount Etna, their household belongings being carried on all sorts of vehicles to get them out of the advancing column of fire. Barnyard animals straggled along with the people, who were abandoning their fields and homes to the molten stream which advanced at a rate of more than 100 yards an hour.

HOUSES DESTROYED

The most fertile and intensively cultivated land in Sicily was being consumed by the lava. Houses were being destroyed and trees burned. Great clouds of steam arose as the heat reached the vats of the distilleries which reduce citric acid. The railway line between Messina and Catania was in grave danger. The situation was regarded as critical, since narmal facilities linking Central Sicily with the coast are few. The authorities thought that if a large quantity of lava collected along the railway it would remain incandescent for a long time and the work of repair would be delayed. To-day all extra rolling stock was being removed rapidly. The electric lighting plant suplying current to the provinces of Catania and Syracuse was endangered.

CENSURE MOTION TO BE HEARD

London, Nov. 8 (Canadian Press Cable)—The Labor resolution of censure of the Government for the Anglo-French naval agreement was withdrawn in the House of Lords last night, but the Labor Party intends to bring forward a motion of censure in the House of Commons shortly.

Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader in the House of Commons, two days ago outlined the view of the party when he called the compromise "not an agreement to limit armaments, but an agreement not to limit armaments."

Premier Stanley Baldwin will reply to the Labor motion.

The resolution in the House of Lords was withdrawn by Lord Thompson, Labor peer, after a comprehensive outline by Lord Cushendun, Acting Foreign Secretary, of the British Government's policy. Lord Cushendun emphasized that Britain had made no commitments. He said Great Britain would not despair of reaching some general agreement on further limitation of naval armaments merely because of the discouraging effects of the Anglo-French negotiations.

SUGGESTIONS DENIED

Lord Cushendun denied the suggestions of commitments and secret agreements. In this connection he said the British Government has made no reply to a suggestion in the French Government's note that whatever the result, the two Governments would none the less be under urgent obligation to act in concert to ensure success of the proposals, or to deal with any difficulties likely to check the work of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission. The British Government had not liked to repel the advance, but they believed its silence would be understood.

FIFTEEN KILLED BY BIG EXPLOSIONS IN MASSACHUSETTS PLANT

Mrs. Blaney and her husband and their children were at the breakfast table when the explosion came. Instantly a sheet of flame leaped from the factory twenty feet to their home, bursting through a window and enveloping the family. Mrs. Blaney and four of the children were burned and smothered to death.

The others in the family escaped with comparatively minor injuries.

There was a series of explosions in a celluloid mixture used in the manufacture of box toes for shoes. The first came at about 7.35 o'clock. Half a minute later there was another and later there were two or three more minor explosions.

One end of the one-story concrete block building was blown out and two bodies hurled into the street with it. The flames which followed the explosions scorched many nearby buildings and the heat and the force of the explosions broke a large number of windows.

The factory adjoined a district made up largely of two-family frame dwellings. Occupants of these homes in many cases were shaken from their beds.

The entire fire department was called to the scene.

What caused the first explosion has not been determined.

In the confusion after the explosions no one could be found who knew exactly how many persons were employed in the factory.

AINLEY, ACTOR, IS ILL IN ENGLAND

Bristol, Eng., Nov. 8—Bristol was astounded to-day to learn that Henry Ainley, noted actor, was lying critically ill in a theatrical boarding house in the poorer part of the city.

Ainley, who is generally credited by critics with being one of Great Britain's greatest Shakespearean actors, came here a few days ago.

The nature of his illness has not been announced, but it is said to be serious, probably necessitating an operation.

LONG PRISON TERMS GIVEN

dlers," remarked the judge to Johnnie Wing.

"You seem to be one of the higher-ups because in your room were found 800 grains of this nefarious drug," said the judge to Low Chee Leuong. "So far as I am concerned, if a man who is not merely a peddler but is the principal comes before this court, he will get the maximum."

To Murray D. Harris, former city fireman, Mr. Justice Murphy said:

"You were not only engaged in continuous burglaries, but you were to some extent using your position as a fireman to deceive the authorities."

Harris's younger brother, Russell, received a year less, because the judge thought he was under the influence of the older man.

CITIZENS' STANDPOINT

"I must regard this from the standpoint of the citizens of British Columbia," said the judge to Russell C. Harris. "You were engaged in a series of burglaries."

SHOULD THINK FIRST

To a plea made by Gordon S. Wismer for leniency for Alexander Swanston, manager and president of Pacific Motors, the judge answered that "people should think of their wives and families before they do this sort of thing."

HOOVER'S WIN SETS RECORD

Republicans definitely to the majority of that party in the House, men who were undoubtedly swept into office on the tide of Hoover sentiment which shook Virginia from its Democratic moorings for the first time since Reconstruction Days.

Kentucky's lead into the Republican column was wholehearted and almost complete. In place of eight Democrats and three Republicans who represent the state in the House at present the Hoover wave changed the representation to nine Republicans and two Democrats.

Sweeping aside of Democratic congressmen was noted in various localities although in two or three instances Republicans were forced to give up their seats to Democrats.

The Senate Democrats also felt the blow of the Hoover landslide. Six of their places up for re-election went to Republicans, whereas all of the thirteen Republican places were retained by the candidates of the party.

STATISTICS OF 1928

The election at a glance:

Electoral vote—Hoover, 444; Smith, 87; Hoover majority, 357.

In 1924—Davis, Democrat had 136; in 1920 Cox, Democrat had 127.

States carried—Hoover, forty; Smith, eight; (Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Rhode Island and South Carolina).

Popoular vote (incomplete)—Hoover, 18,299,708; Smith, 12,989,093. Hoover's plurality, 5,310,615.

In 1924 Coolidge had 15,725,016; Davis, 8,386,503, and La Follette, 4,822,856.

Fourteen large cities—Hoover, 8; Smith, 6.

Hoover won Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Buffalo and Cincinnati.

Smith won New York, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston, San Francisco, Newark.

Total vote in these cities—Smith, 3,420,769; Hoover, 3,375,079.

STANDING IN CONGRESS

Congress—New Senate will have fifty-four Republicans, forty Democrats, one Farmer-Laborite and one vacancy, compared with forty-seven Republicans, forty-six Democrats, one Farmer-Laborite, two vacancies. Republican lead in the House increased.

Governors elected — Republican twenty-three; Democrats, eleven.

CALIFORNIA VOTE

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—The overwhelming majorities which California gave Herbert Hoover and Senator Hiram Johnson are shown by late election returns. Final unofficial returns as tabulated by the Associated Press for 8,451 precincts out 9,086 in California gave for President: Hoover, 1,048,617; Smith, 581,930.

The figures for the two chief cities are: San Francisco, Smith, 95,928; Hoover, 93,285; Los Angeles: Hoover, 475,538; Smith, 198,950.

Senator Johnson won by a majority of more than 800,000 votes. Minor Moore, his Democratic opponent, did not conduct an active campaign.

Ten incumbent Republican representatives and one Democratic representative were re-elected.

OREGON COUNT

Portland, Ore., Nov. 8—Herbert Hoover's lead over Governor Smith in Oregon jumped to 87,424 with compilation of belated returns to-day. With 1,657 precincts out of 1,783 in the state reported, the vote stood: Hoover, 184,791; Smith, 97,367.

The election for Oregon's congressional representation early developed into "no contest" with the three Republican candidates sweeping ahead of the field.

ALASKA COUNT

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 8 — With 75 per cent of the returns from all of Alaska reported, Dan Sutherland, Republican incumbent, is leading George Grigsby, Democrat, by 577 votes. The totals are: Sutherland, 4,691; Grigsby, 4,114.

Columbia and abolished in spirit at least the remedy of imprisonment for debt, and the limit under which a man could be held under capias proceedings was one year, he submitted. The writ of capias had been improperly given in the first place, said Mr. Jackson, stating that after Wise left Ontario, that remedy could not be made to apply.

The defendant, with others, had entered into an arrangement to purchase a Detroit restaurant owned by the plaintiff, one Ping Lee, a Chinese of Toronto. This arrangement had been once renewed, which proved, said Mr. Jackson, that the element of fraud could not have been present in the deal or in connection with the defendant's share in it.

STARTED FOR CHINA

Later, continued counsel for the defendant, Wise made preparation to return to China, having completed his studies in Canada. Those studies included courses at Winnipeg high schools, the Manitoba Agricultural College, and at McGill University. He advertised his intended departure, and the Chinese newspaper in Toronto had published an announcement of a farewell social tea in his honor. There had been nothing secretive about Wise's intended departure, Mr. Jackson submitted.

ARRESTED ON COAST

On arrival on this Coast from Toronto, Wise engaged passage on a ship returning to China, and was arrested on capias proceedings the day before he was due to sail, Mr. Jackson said. The judgment was one obtained for a sum of about $4,000 in proceedings before the Supreme Court at Vancouver. As Wise had no assets with which to satisfy the debt, he should be discharged, Mr. Jackson urged.

H. A. Maclean, K.C., for Ping Lee, the plaintiff, asked a further adjournment of the application. There was nothing on record to show that Wise was without sufficient assets to satisfy the judgment, and he wished to get in touch with plaintiff in regard to that and other phases of the issue, said Mr. Maclean.

Chief Justice Hunter adjourned the hearing until November 19, giving leave to Mr. Maclean to examine the defendant on his recent affidavits, and stating that the application at the later date would have to be reopened before another judge, as His Lordship would not then be in the city. Wise was returned in custody of the sheriff's officers to the city cells.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Henderson, witness admitted having gone to the store for the purpose of procuring evidence.

"This store is entitled to keep open after 6 o'clock," said Mr. Henderson.

"But not for groceries," replied witness.

DEFENCE EVIDENCE

The whole evidence for the defence rested upon the contention that the by-law was ultra vires, Mr. Henderson stated, quoting section 9 of the Shops Regulations Act to support his point.

He also claimed that the Little shop was entitled to be open after 6 o'clock under the by-law which provides for the exemption of shops selling confectioneries, tobacco supplies and similar goods.

In reply, Mr. Harrison stated the matter had been threshed out in court nearly ten years ago, shortly after the by-law's passing. He asked an adjournment to investigate the situation.

EXEMPTIONS

Regarding the point taken by Mr. Henderson that the Little shop was entitled to remain open, Mr. Harrison drew attention to a section of the by-law which states that shops are exempted from the rule if their sales are "limited to fresh milk, cream, newspapers, magazines, postcards, confectioneries, beverages, tobacco products, smokers' accessories, fresh friut, ice cream, butter, fresh eggs, buttermilk, etc." The shop could not remain open if it were selling groceries, he maintained.

The magistrate upheld this point, declaring that if such were not the case, any grocery store could evade the by-law by keeping a small supply of confectioneries on hand. The case will be continued next Tuesday.

The case of Allen Pynn, facing a similar charge, was remanded, pending decision in the Little case.

RADIOTELEPHONY FOR WEST COAST OF ISLAND

in one part of the Province may be able to pick up his telephone receiver, ask for a party in another part of the Province, and talk to him by a combination wired telephone and radio-telephone circuit, as is now being done across the Atlantic Ocean.

"This would mean that men in isolated logging camps, for instance, would be able to 'ring up' Victoria business men in their own offices and hold conversations with them just as if the calling parties were right in the same city. It is not difficult to imagine what a boon such a service would be. Another development would be the giving of the same service to coasting vessels plying in British Columbia waters.

"These are our plans. There are many problems to be solved before we attain success, but we feel that there are no people in a better position to develop a communication service for the outlying points than the men who are at present supplying most of the telephone service in British Columbia. Our project will be carried forward with the co-operation of both the Provincial and Federal authorities."

day that is one of the accepted things," says Premier Brownlee in urging closer co-operation between British Columbia and Alberta.

READY TO CO-OPERATE

"The British Columbia producer will find the Alberta farmer ready to co-operate with him. To-day the faces of the people of Alberta are turned westward after many years of looking eastward for everything," the Alberta leader declared. "The dividing line between eastern and western crop movement will move steadily eastward and soon you will have the whole crop of Alberta coming this way."

Mr. Brownlee regards the rapidly-developing territory of the Peace River as quite as great potentially as the older parts of Alberta.

In touching upon the value of Alberta to British Columbia as a market for its products, Premier Brownlee stated that the population of Alberta had increased from 185,000 in 1906 to over 620,000 in 1928.

SHOWS HUGE GROWTH

Acreage under crop had increased in the same time from 650,000 to 14,500,000 and the purchasing power had risen from $16,400,000 to $330,000,000.

"Twenty years ago we had 320,000 acres in wheat. To-day in the Peace River alone we have more than 320,000 acres under crop, and last year the territory produced over 9,000,000 bushels of wheat, more than was ever produced in any other part, because the Peace River land is more productive," he said.

After partaking of breakfast at the Empress Hotel at an early hour, Premier Brownlee was interviewed by a number of friends and business acquaintances in the city and he later called on Premier Tolmie and members of the Government.

sistant chief secretary to the Government of Northern Rhodesia.

This appeal says that "Howard Pim, chairman of the Johannesburg Joint Council of Europeans and Natives, laid before us the very serious position in South Africa in consequence of proposed native legislation," namely, three bills affecting the native franchise, labor conditions and their powers to purchase land, which the appeal describes as "disastrous, retrograde policy which may have far-reaching effects elsewhere in the world."

HELP IS URGED

"We English can now do nothing directly in the matter," the appeal continues, "but we can help those who are bearing the brunt of the fight for wise dealings with the natives, and we are convinced we shall be so doing in helping the work on Johannesburg Joint Council of Europeans and Natives."

Hon. Tielman Roos said the Nationalists would fight the next election in South Africa for the principle of nationalism, the rock to which the party could hold in fighting communism, Bolshevism "and all the other 'isms which face us. As Nationalists we will fight to the utmost any attempt to develop the natives along lines which will endanger the white standard of the Union."

RUPTURE Expert in Victoria

Rupture is not a tear or breach in the abdomen as commonly supposed, but a dilation or stretching of a natural opening due to weakness or strain, sufficient to permit the viscera to protrude, therefore nothing to knit or heal as ignorantly believed, but same will contract or close if the contents be kept out of it. This opening is never larger than a nickel, seldom larger than a ten-cent piece—so why use big pads to cover small openings or wear trusses where the lump is instead of where the opening is, as everybody does. Any Rupture can be held with the end of a lead pencil. The smaller the Rupture, the greater the danger, large Ruptures more difficult to retain. Incisional Ruptures (resulting from operations), are the most difficult and complicated as well as a positive and permanent injury.

"Seeley Spermatic Shield" will not only retain any case of rupture, perfectly, but contracts the opening in ten days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

Supplied to the late Dr. Edward Shippen, former Medical Director U.S. Navy! Also to Surg. Gen.'s Bureau, U.S. Naval Hospital—Penn. R.R.

CAUTION—Avoid all elastic or webb trusses with understraps, or other styles of the usual trade patterns, as they invariably rest where the lump is, and that is not where the opening is.

UNETHICAL?

AMONG THE GROUNDS URGED BY the morning paper for the election of Dr. Tolmie here when the party it supported was in power was the need of a new drydock at Esquimalt. In fact this was the main plank of the Doctor's platform and The Colonist was very enthusiastic over it. But it now pretends to be terribly shocked at what it calls the unethical suggestion that Dr. MacLean be sent to Ottawa to impress the Government he would support with the desirability of furthering a progressive programme of port development. It was quite all right in our contemporary's opinion to send a Conservative to support a Conservative Government a few years ago; it is wicked even to think of sending a Liberal to support a Liberal Government in 1928.

The voters of this community very naturally are anxious that the maritime business of this port shall be developed along progressive lines. Dr. MacLean is familiar with our needs, he has made them the basis of his appeal for support at the polls next month. His objective is Victoria's advancement and his election will be an indication to the Government at Ottawa that this city desires its co-operation in this respect. The Canadian-Australian trade treaty likewise is vital to this community's industrial future and directly related to the expansion of our shipping business. It will be an issue in the campaign. Hence, if we elect an opponent of the Government on December 6, we shall place ourselves in opposition to the policies Dr. MacLean desires to advocate on port development. We also would be implying that we do not value the inter-imperial trading arrangement which certain elements in Australia would like to abrogate because British Columbia in particular and Canada in general are enjoying most of the benefits it confers, that we are not interested in new benefits that would accrue to us if the lumbermen of British Columbia succeed in getting lumber put on the same preferential basis in the Australian market as that of our paper and fish. Mr. Bennett, of course, is a bitter opponent of this treaty; the election of a member to support him in the House of Commons obviously would imply that this community also is opposed to it. At least the Australian critics of it, and they constitute an influential element, would so interpret it.

THE POPULAR VOTE

ONE OF THE INTERESTING FEATURES of Tuesday's presidential election in the United States is the contrast between the division of the popular vote and that of the Electoral College vote. Although Mr. Hoover has 444 of the 531 electoral votes, his majority over Mr. Smith in a total poll from the country at large of more than 31,000,000 may not exceed 5,000,000.

This is not altogether a new experience for defeated candidates in presidential contests. One historic instance, however, was the Harrison-Cleveland election in 1889. On that occasion Mr. Harrison was in the minority as far as the popular vote was concerned by approximately 300,000 votes; but he had the requisite margin in the Electoral College. It is not an unusual thing, of course, for governments to hold office with a minority of votes, especially where several parties are involved. But in a straight party fight between two candidates a decisive result should be expected.

FRIENDLY ADVICE

IN A DISCUSSION OF THE BYELECTION contest this morning The Colonist makes the following observations:

> An endeavor to infuse into the people of Victoria political ethics dominated by the suggestion that, "to the victors belong the spoils," is not likely to succeed. Some Liberals may preach such ethics and welcome enthusiastically support for their political nostrums from one of the Vancouver newspapers, but the voters as a whole do not believe they should be regarded as a weathercock for every wind that blows. Fortunately the people of Victoria have a sense of humor and it is that sense that has been applied to the inspired suggestion of the Vancouver newspaper.

The Vancouver newspaper referred to is The Daily Province, which opposed Dr. MacLean in the recent provincial contest. It had the audacity to imply that Victoria would be doing a good stroke of business for itself if it made sure of Dr. MacLean's election to the Dominion House by giving him an acclamation. But the morning paper for obvious reasons sees some sinister object in the suggestion. It fears that the Mainland newspaper has been hatching some dark scheme with Dr. King to get things for Vancouver which ought to come to Victoria. It is a far-fetched argument and quite probably will appeal to the sense of humor of many Victorians.

The Colonist's reference to "political ethics" and "to the victors belong the spoils" is interesting and also may appeal to the sense of humor of the majority of the people of this community. We have not yet observed it condemning the Tolmie Government for its appointment to the office of Purchasing Agent an official who always has been closely identified with the activities of the Conservative Party.

MR. HOOVER AND THE TARIFF

IN HIS PRE-ELECTION CAMPAIGN MR. Hoover was very guarded in his references to the tariff and what he would do with it if he were elected. Some of his platform supporters, of course, went as far as to suggest that Canada might expect higher duties against her agricultural products. But Mr. Hoover did not go any further than to say he might find it desirable to revise the present schedule in certain particulars. No doubt this was intended for political effect in the agrarian states.

The United States farmer does not want higher duties. He has a very good reason for not doing so. Higher duties mean higher prices to the consumers; higher prices to the consumers nearly always are followed by a slackening off in the demand. Higher duties also would mean an increase in the cost of his implements. That is the last thing the farmers of the United States want. They are asking for a form of relief which although uneconomic in principle, appears to be the only solution for a condition peculiar to the farming areas of the republic. Agricultural land across the border is expensive, taxes are high, the export market for the products of the farm has seriously diminished because the country's tariff barriers are too high to admit a sufficiently large volume of goods in exchange.

In view of these circumstances there is very little likelihood that Mr. Hoover will interfere to any extent with the present tariff. Living costs in the United States already are considered much too high for a great bulk of the population to meet them without difficulty. It is the consuming public which Mr. Hoover has to consider before any particular producing section.

WEST COAST ROAD

THE DUNCAN BOARD OF TRADE HAS requested the Government to build the road to the West Coast from the Cowichan Lake District, instead of adhering to the route from this city already adopted and on which a considerable start has been made.

A connecting road through the Cowichan Lake district to the West Coast no doubt could be justified on economic grounds, and there would appear to be no reason why it should not be undertaken in time, but the main highway from Victoria along the coast must be proceeded with.

We do not know what information the Duncan Board of Trade has in its possession which prompts it to suggest that there are unsurmountable obstacles in the way of the present West Coast road location. This project has been thoroughly investigated by competent engineers and the new Government is committed definitely to the continuation of the work.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SETTLING THE WEST

The Toronto Globe

If young men are to be brought from the Old Land to settle the West, there should be a corresponding number of young women introduced into the country, that homes may be established and colonization may become a fact. On the prairies at present there are more men than women. . . . This condition has been getting worse gradually. It is a point to which the Government should direct attention, for it is essential that the men have opportunities to establish themselves in their own homes.

IT IS A BRAVE, NEW DAY

By Bruce Catton

Commander H. C. MacDonald apparently has joined the lengthening list of aviators who gave up their lives in the effort to fly the Atlantic.

He was not, like the rest of them, an accomplished flyer. Indeed, he was little better than a novice. If he had made the crossing it would have been a marvel. His plane, according to reports, carried barely enough gasoline to get him across even with the most favorable winds; the chances seem to have been something like 100 to one against his success.

Foolhardy? Surely. But we seem to be living in a new age of knighterrantry, where sheer physical bravery is prized above all other virtues, and where a man who can prove that death does not scare him is the greatest of us all.

Perhaps this new attitude is a good thing. After all, modern life, in its daily routine, is pretty well sheltered. Most of us go from the home to the office or shop, day after day, with never anything more pressing to worry us than an overdraft at the bank or a bungled bit of work that draws the ire of the boss. We are far removed from elemental conflicts or daring chances. Nothing more perilous than a congested street crossing ever enters our lives.

Into all of this added safety came the aeroplane. The inevitable reaction was overpowering. Straightway we turned back the pages of history and plunged into a worship of raw heroism.

The result has been a long list of deaths. A great many splendid young men—and women as well—whom the world could not well afford to lose have died in ocean flights. Some of them planned well and some of them planned poorly; some of them were sacrificed to their own incompetence or heedlessness, and some of them were sacrificed to North Atlantic blizzards. It does not matter. They are gone, and there is not so much nobility in the world that we do not miss them.

But it is not all a dead loss. The modern world has somehow made us forget that fundamentally man is an unconquerable spirit. These young aviators have brought it to mind again. The mere fact that there are so many, many young men who will rush to fling away their lives rather than let the challenge of the open sea pass unanswered is a cheering portent. It means that the fibre of the race has not softened. The spirit that drove Columbus and Eric the Red out on the unknown sea in flimsy cockleshells is not dead.

That is the significance of flights such as the one that cost Commander MacDonald his life. The waste is tragic, appalling; but we are all the better because MacDonald, and others like him, have proved to us that the race can still breed men who can laugh at death in the dark.

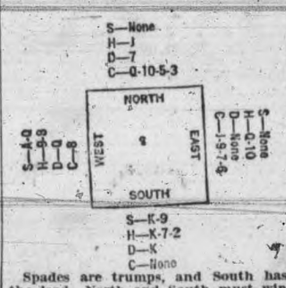
BRIDGE PUZZLE

By FABYAN MATHEY

NUMBER EIGHT



Spades are trumps, and South has the lead. North and South must win four of the five tricks, against a perfect defence.

Lay the cards out on the table, as shown in the diagram. Study them and see if you can find how North and South can win four of the five tricks. The one way in which this can be done is outlined for you in the solution, printed on this page to-morrow.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

This problem embodies the squeeze play. In addition, it is rather unique because the only way of solving it lies in trumping with what appears to be an unnecessary high card and then permitting the opponents to win a trump trick with a lower card.

South leads the four of spades, North trumping with the jack and East discarding a diamond. North then leads the nine of trumps, which West wins with the ten. West is now forced to lead a spade to South, South immediately winning two tricks in that suit. On these two spade tricks, East must discard either two diamonds or one diamond and the ace of hearts. In the former case, South leads the deuce of diamonds and North wins the last two tricks with the queen and seven. If East discards the ace of hearts and only one diamond, South wins the next trick with the king of hearts and North the last trick with the queen of diamonds.

If you solved this problem correctly, you are something of a bridge player. If you didn't, it was far from being a disgrace.

LEADER SEES PEACE GAINS

Sir A. Chamberlain, Honored By Toronto University, Speaks of Progress

Toronto, Nov. 8—"For one who lived through the anxiety of the Great War there can be no higher aim, no more earnest desire, than to contribute, if he may, in some small degree to prevent a repetition of such a catastrophe," declared Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in an address at a special convocation of the University of Toronto yesterday during which an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him.

"I believe that in the past four or five years something has been done toward the achievement of that result. No League of Nations, no Treaty of Locarno, no pact of peace, will make war impossible, but each one of these makes war more perilous for the aggressor. Each one of these helps to bring home to him that if he commits an act of aggression he will be brought before the world tribunal of nations, and that by them he will be judged, and that whatever one nation may do to justify its disturbance of the peace, the moral judgment of the world will go against it.

"And the moral judgment of the world, is something that no nation, however great, can afford to affront.

PROGRESS SEEN

"I have been closely concerned with the conduct of foreign affairs and relationships of the past few years. I am sure—and my foreign colleagues and associates would confirm what I say if they were here—that in these years we have done something to assure the world against a like disturbance of its peace in the future. We have done something to recreate the society of nations and to make all the world feel it has common interests and common obligations. I hope that by us or by our successors, whoever they may be, the work may be continued with increasing success."

AMBASSADOR HONORED

At the convocation yesterday an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters was conferred on Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States.

U.S. Election Tilts Cause Three Deaths

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8—There was a killing as a result of an election argument yesterday at Ashland, when Constable Newton Fannin, thirty-three, was fatally shot when he intervened to quell trouble between several youths.

Stanley Layne, thirty-two, and Austin Fogle, thirty-two, were taken into custody, Layne being held as the slayer and Fogle as an accessory.

On Tuesday two men were shot and mortally wounded in election arguments in this state.

STOMACH ALWAYS OUT OF ORDER

Never Felt Right Until He Tried TANLAC

All pains are bad, but some are worse than others. Of these extra bad pains, about the worst are Stomach pains. A real cramp in the stomach just about doubles one up. So that anyone subject to griping pains due to Indigestion has a pretty miserable time of it. And Mr. F. Gauthier, of Great Falls, Manitoba, was a very sick man because of Stomach Trouble. Ordinary meals formed lead-like lumps in his stomach and brought on those terrible cramps. He lost weight; could not sleep; and became very nervous. Of course, he tried various medicines, but nothing seemed to do him any good. Then, he writes, "I was advised to try TANLAC, and I want to say that TANLAC filled the bill. I am on my fifth bottle and am in splendid physical condition. Indigestion, stomach trouble, nervousness, sleeplessness have all disappeared; and I am eating, sleeping and working as a healthy man should." If everything you eat distresses you, if you are pale, weak and nervous give TANLAC a chance to help you. It is made from roots, barks and herbs. Nature's own medicines for the sick, and costs less than 2c. a dose. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day—your money back if it does not help you.

ALAN DWAN TO PAY ALIMONY

New York, Nov. 8.—Under a tentative agreement which needed only his signature to become operative, Alan Dwan, motion picture director, will pay his former wife, Mrs. Pauline Bush Dwan, about $10,000 a year, and set up a fund to guarantee payment.

The tentative settlement was made after his former wife's suit for an accounting was dismissed when it was called for trial before Supreme Court Justice Valento.

Under a separation agreement signed eight years ago, Mrs. Dwan was to receive a percentage of Dwan's earnings up to $26,000 a year. Later he stopped payment, pleading he had no income. She sued for an accounting.

Dwan was married last year to Betty Marie Shelton, former show girl.

MR. A. FLOWER WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS HERE

Stratford-upon-Avon Players Coming to Victoria Shortly

In connection with the forthcoming visit to Victoria of the Stratford-on-Avon Festival Company, Mr. Archibald Flower, who precedes their coming, will be here on November 19, and through Miss Powell, lectures in connection with the company. Arrangements have been made for Mr. Flower to address the students at the Victoria High School on November 21 and at St. Margaret's School on November 22.

FOREMOST AUTHORITY

For six years Mr. Flower has been mayor of Stratford-on-Avon, and is chairman of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, as well as chairman of the governors of Shakespeare's School. On the death of Sir Sidney Lee he was elected chairman of the trustees and guardians of Shakespeare's birthplace, and he is considered the foremost authority on Shakespeare.

The company comes to Canada direct from the longest and most successful Spring and Summer seasons it has ever played in Shakespeare's birthplace. The Memorial Theatre, a living memorial where his plays are presented in festival twice annually, was built and dedicated nearly fifty years ago, thanks to the generosity of the late Charles E. Flower and his public-spirited fellow citizens. Destroyed by fire in March, 1926, and compelled since then to use a temporary stage and auditorium, this sole theatre in the British Empire possessing a Royal Charter from His Majesty the King, will soon rise from its ashes, with a fund contributed by the entire world, as the most perfectly equipped repertory theatre in English-speaking lands.

The Stratford-on-Avon Festival Company lays claim to no revolutionary or oracular methods in interpreting Shakespeare. Contrary to practice in recent generations, however, it presents the plays as completely and as nearly in the order Shakespeare wrote them as the customs and tastes of modern audiences will permit. In each case, whether the play be comedy, tragedy or history, the result is a dramatic narrative, a story of unexpectedly absorbing interest, compelling continuity and emotionally effective climaxes.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BOY WAITS FOR COMMANDING TONE

Mrs. T. writes:

"I have a baby girl, one year old last June, and a boy of four years. The baby's hands are always cold. Others have also noticed this. I do not believe the baby has poor circulation, for her cheeks are red as roses. It is true our house isn't warm; it seems difficult to keep it so with fireplaces. She sleeps and takes her nap on a screened porch. I keep a sweater on her most of the time, but when I try bundling her legs that is just one more thing to be wet and need changing when her diapers are changed. She seems very heavy. I have not weighed her lately. Would letting her be chilly retard her growth?

Mrs. Eldred

"Just a few questions about the boy. He is a sweet, happy, enthusiastic little fellow and "ideas of his own," and a determination to have his own way, which I find hard to combat. I don't want him to lose his sweetness, and yet it is 'like pulling teeth' to get him to mind. He is obedient behind my back, but when I call him to come then he has numerous objections. I try to answer reasonably, but it is difficult to argue with a four-year old. I speak quietly and pleasantly to him, but he holds off until I use an ordering tone. I believe he thinks that is proper as he uses it also when playing with other children. I find your column so helpful."

ANSWER

I should find out how the baby is gaining, that is the best indication of how she is progressing and it doesn't pay to guess. A once a month weighing is enough now, and a monthly gain of one-half pound is average.

If the baby is active and seems comfortable the coolness of the fingers may not be significant of real discomfort. Perhaps some little wool in the shirts and bands would do away with this condition and allow for an omission of the sweater.

You have diagnoesd the case rightly. The boy now waits for the tone that you use when he knows he must obey. I should not allow the argument to reach that point. I would apprise him far enough in advance of what he is expected to do so that he can be prepared for it. Then when you call him go right out and take his hand and bring him in. No argument, no "ordering," just do it. He is very soon going to recognize this as inevitable and cease to "hold back," waiting until the final moment for obeying. The new habit will become automatic after the child has come to expect that when he is notified in advance that he must obey without argument. A mother only weakens her own case by bluster and argument if her commands are sensible and must be carried out.

MRS. A. THOMSON IS HONORED BY ALEXANDRA CLUB

Presented With Life Membership in Club at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Alexandra Club, Pemberton Building, was held in the library of the club last evening with a good attendance present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. H. J. Pendray, who is in Europe, and of the vice-president, who was unable to attend, Mrs. W. H. Belson took the chair.

The retiring secretary, Miss Lottie Bowron, read a very encouraging report on the future of the club, and Miss Paul, the treasurer, in giving her report, showed that the club was in a very healthy position.

Miss Clearihue, the librarian, read an interesting report on the work of the library which she, with the assistance of Mrs. R. H. Bates, had undertaken during the year.

All these officers were heartily thanked for their services.

A very happy feature of the evening was that in which Mrs. Alice Thomson was made a life member of the club. A very deep appreciation was expressed by the members for Mrs. Thomson's continued help to the club in many capacities during the last few years, she having served as president for two terms, and for the last few months, in the absence of Mrs. Pendray, has been filling this position.

MRS. PARR PRESIDENT

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. M'D. Parr; first vice-president, Mrs. David Donald; second vice-president, Miss Josephine Crease; honorary secretary, Miss Winnifred Fergusson; honorary treasurer, Miss Paul; honorary librarian, Miss C. M. McMullin; committee, Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Plaskett, Miss Bowron, Miss C. Belson, Mrs. H. J. Pendray, Mrs. Kaye Puckle, Mrs. R. M. Stewart, Miss Alma Russell, Mdme. Claudet, Miss Jean Donald, Miss Noel Fergusson and Mrs. Colin Cummins.

Lady Astor Pleased With Hoover Victory

London, Nov. 8.—Lady Astor, speaking to an English journalist in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon is quoted by him as saying:

"I am delighted with the Hoover victory. I am a Virginian and on the other side of American party politics, but I regard Mr. Hoover's success as a victory for prohibition."

MOTHERS And THEIR CHILDREN

SHOE LACE TIPS

One Mother says: When my children were first learning to lace their shoes they had great difficulty, because the tips came off so often, even when the lace was still quite new. When this happens, I dip the end of the string in glue then roll it into a small point. When the glue dries you have a good tip that stays as long as the shoe string lasts.

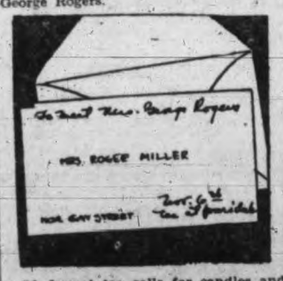
NANCY PAGE

LOIS PLANS TO ENTERTAIN WITH AFTERNOON TEA

By Florence La Ganke

Lois had been married in June. The Summer had been too hot for indoor entertaining. But with the cooler days came the opportunity for an afternoon tea. As usual she went to Nancy for help. "Tell me how to go about it, what to have to eat, how to invite guests, what to wear and everything." Nancy settled herself and little Peter in a low chair and gave Lois the conventions and rules.

"A formal tea calls for engraved invitations. The informal one, which is the kind I hope you will give, calls for visiting card invitations enclosed in envelops to fit. On the card you write the date and hour—November 6. Tea at four o'clock. You write it opposite the address on your card. If you are giving a tea to honor a guest you write at top of your card, 'To meet Mrs. George Rogers.'



"A formal tea calls for candles and drawn shades, a beautifully appointed tea table and adjoining service. The informal tea does not have to draw window shades. You wear your prettiest frock and dress yourself in poise and graciousness as well. Have flowers on tea table, in living-room. If weather is chilly light fire in open fireplace. But don't make the mistake of having house too warm. As people congregate the temperature in rooms rises.

"Be ready to greet your first guest. If you have a maid station her near door to open it and direct guests to dressing rooms."

JOE SMITH
Manager

Here are the first photographs of the players who will represent Victoria in the Pacific Coast Hockey League. The players constitute one of the huskiest squads in hockey and hope to carry the colors of Victoria in the same successful manner as the old Cougars. "Smiling Joe" Smith, the popular manager of the club, is the biggest man on the team as far as weight is concerned. He tips the scales at 235 pounds. If Smith's weight is added to the total weight of the players the club possesses 2,088 pounds, or a ton of human hockey material. Although he is making his debut as a professional manager, Smith is rated as one of the smartest pilots in the league.

ROGERS HORNSBY, TRANSIENT STAR, TRADED TO CUBS

Chicago Gives Boston Record Sum of Money and Five Players For "Rajah"

Rogers Now Has Unique Record of Being Most Traded Star Ever Known

Chicago, Nov. 8. — Rogers Hornsby, the transient star of National League baseball, will next be seen in a Chicago Cubs uniform.

Five players and a large sum of money, perhaps the largest amount ever involved in a baseball deal, will go to the Boston Braves in exchange for the "rajah," who has worn the uniforms of three clubs in the past three years.

The long rumored deal, which gave the Cubs the National League's leading hitter, was completed last night in a telephone conversation between President W. L. Veeck, of the Chicago Cubs, and Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves.

President Veeck refused to divulge the exact sum of money involved, but intimated it was between $150,000 and $200,000.

The highest price previously paid for a player was $137,000 given by New York Yankees to the Boston Red Sox for Babe Ruth in 1920.

TWO REGULARS GO

True to President Veeck's statement that the Cub team would not be wrecked to get Hornsby, only two regulars were included in the transaction. One was Freddie Maguire, who was moved to make room for Hornsby at second base, and the other was Percy Jones, veteran southpaw. The other three players were Louis Leggett, rookie catcher, recalled from the Cubs' farm at Reading, Pa.; Harry Seibold, a recruit hurler who starred with the Reading club last season, and Bruce Cunningham, a pitcher acquired from Los Angeles.

UNIQUE RECORD

Hornsby's transfer to the Cubs gives him the unique record of being the most traded star baseball has ever known. In 1926 he managed the St. Louis Cardinals to a world's series title. In 1927 he was in a New York Giant uniform.

Hornsby had a great year with the Giants in 1927, successfully managing the team during John McGraw's absence, but the opening of the 1928 season found him at Boston. In the middle of the 1928 race Jack Slattery resigned as manager and Hornsby was named to succeed him.

Hornsby's sale to Boston for players Welsh and Hogan proved a bigger surprise than his shift from St. Louis to New York. Mystery still shrouds reasons for the deal.

It is probable the Cubs will take over Hornsby's Boston contract which calls for an annual salary of approximately $40,000.

MADE DEBUT IN 1915

Hornsby made his major league debut in 1915, coming up from the Dallas, Texas, club for a reported $500. In 1915 he played eighteen games at shortstop for St. Louis but from 1916 to 1921 he played three different infield positions and once tried the outfield.

From 1922 to 1926, he confined his efforts to second base and during that period established numerous batting records. In 1922 he set a league home run record of forty-two, and in 1924 a major league batting record of .424. He wound up the past season with an average of .387 and only twice since he joined the majors has he finished below the .300 mark.

RICH GAMBLER BURIED AT N.Y.

New York, Nov. 8.—Orthodox Jewish services were held yesterday for Arnold Rothstein, millionaire gambler, killed because he refused to pay $200,000 won from him, it is said, with marked cards.

Burial followed immediately after the brief services.

When Rothstein recently "dropped his roll" in a game that he was convinced was crooked, he refused to pay although he knew that such a refusal would make him a marked man for swift punishment of the underworld. That punishment was meted out in a hotel room Sunday night. A bullet fired at close range tore through his abdomen and yesterday he died, refusing to the last, in accordance with the underworld code by which he lived, to reveal the identity of his slayer.

TWENTY-NINE RIDERS WILL TRY "CLIMB"

Motorcycle Club Announces Entries For 1928 Hillclimb to Be Held Monday

Thirteen Riders Entered in "Open" Class Will Provide Keen Competition

With twenty-nine entries assured for the four different classes, the Victoria Motorcycle Club has completed arrangements for its annual hillclimb at Mount Douglas.

The climb will take place on the southern slope of the mountain, commencing at 2 p.m. sharp next Monday, Thanksgiving Day.

Indicative of the stiff competition which will be apparent in most of the classes has been the practice which the boys have engaged in during the last few weeks. Another hill, formerly used as the official test, has been utilized by the competitors to tune up their motors and prepare their nerve for the big tryout on Monday, and several of the riders have shown marvelous work on this slope.

OVER TOP IN "HIGH"

Last Sunday, if reports issued by the club officials are accurate, three of the riders, two mounted on Harley-Davidsons and one on an Indian, went over the top of the practice hill in high gear. One of the boys claims he made a mistake when he put his bike into "high," but he cleared the top just the same. This seems to indicate there will be a smashing of records when the official hill is thrown open on Monday afternoon.

The various riders last night drew for their riding positions. The first event, which will be an exhibition by small motors, will find only two boys entered. These are Jack Lake with a Harley single and Frank Thomas with an Indian Scout.

"74" INCH

Big motors will take a try at the hill next, with Denny Barraclough making the first ride in the 74-inch class. Following him in order will be: P. Girardau, A. West, G. Reece, G. Evans, S. Dunnnell, R. Shanks, W. Dillabough, Bob Shanks, W. Hughes, and L. Green.

Stan Berriman, Bob Shanks and Joe Wheeler will appear on the scene next with their Scout "45's". It was this type of machine which last year set a hill record, Wheeler being in the saddle. He has more competition for the 1928 climb.

THIRTEEN RIDERS

Last, but not least, will be an event open to all makes and sizes of motors. There are thirteen entries in this class, including the most daring and enthusiastic riders in the city and some of the best motors. They will ride in the following order: J. Wheeler, P. Girardau, Bob Shanks, S. Berriman, G. Evans, W. Hughes, A. West, R. Shanks, S. Dunnell, D. Barraclough, G. Reece, W. Dillabough and L. Green.

Seattle's Arena Opens Before A Bumper Crowd

Seattle, Nov. 8.—Seattle's ice arena made its initial bow before a packed house last night. Standing room was at a premium. A programme of twenty-five events concluding with a free-for-all hockey match between the Firemen and the Police furnished two-and-one-half hours of thrilling entertainment.

Percy Williams of Vancouver, B.C., Olympic sprint champion, gave an exhibition of running on the ice. He was given a big hand.

A large number of skaters from the Connaught Club of Vancouver contributed special numbers.

Rough Riders To Challenge East

Regina, Nov. 8.—At a meeting here last night of the executive and players of the Regina Rough Riders, senior rugby champions of Western Canada, it was officially announced that the Riders are challenging the Eastern champions for the Dominion of Canada senior rugby championship.

RUGBY PRACTICE

The Canadian Scottish senior and intermediate rugby teams will work out to-night at 8 o'clock in the Armories. All players are requested to turn out and get in shape for Saturday's game.

Cubs Will Be One Of Heaviest Teams Anywhere In Hockey

Eleven Players Have Total Weight of 1,853 Pounds for an Average Weight of 168½ Pounds; Herman Runge Heaviest Man on Club, Tipping Scales at 208 Pounds; Earl Robertson Is "the Kid" on the Team, While Bill Borland Is the Veteran; Players Getting In Plenty of Practice

Victoria will have one of the heaviest teams in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, according to figures compiled to-day. The Cubs may possibly be the heaviest in hockey, being a rival of the burly Montreal Maroons.

The total weight of the eleven players on the Victoria team is nearly a ton, or to be correct, 1,853 pounds, an average weight of 168½ pounds. Herman Runge, the centre, is the biggest man on the club, tipping the scales at exactly 208 pounds. This is just about his playing weight. Little Dave Downie is the lightest man on the club, his weight being reckoned at 140 pounds. Downie is the only player who goes under 150 pounds. Dave makes up for his light weight by his speed and will be just about the fastest in the league.

ROBERTSON "THE KID"

Bill Borland, the playing manager of the Cubs, is the veteran of the club, being thirty-two years of age. Earl Robertson, the goalie, earns the title of "the kid," being only eighteen years of age.

The list of Victoria players along with their ages and weights is as follows:

Dave Downie, age 19, weight 140 lbs. He started his hockey career in Regina playing there until last season when he joined the Vancouver Monarchs.

Earl Robertson, age 18, weight 160 lbs. Learned his hockey in Regina, being a teammate of Downie's. He also came out to the Coast last season to play with the Monarchs. He played for four years in Regina.

REGULAR WINNIPEGGERS

Bill Borland, age 32, weight 181 lbs. Commenced his hockey in Winnipeg and has played there every year until this season. Last year he was with the Winnipeg Maroons in the American Association.

Cliff O'Meara, age 30, weight 150 lbs. Started the game in Winnipeg and has played there ever since. Was a member of the Winnipeg pro team last season.

IS N.H.L. PROSPECT

Oliver Redpath, age 24, weight 170 lbs. A former Winnipeg player, being paired with Borland last Winter on the defence of the Winnipeg Maroons. He is rumored as being an N.H.L. prospect.

Ernie Leacock, age 22, weight 165 lbs. Comes from Banff, Alberta, where he started his hockey life. Last Winter Ernie played with Bobby Rowe's Rosebuds as well as a couple of games with Victoria.

Jack Kelly, aged 24, weight 165 lbs. Played in Winnipeg most of the time. He was with the Winnipeg Maroons in 1927.

THE BIG MAN

COLLEGE GIRLS WIN EXCITING HOOP CONTEST

Score Four Baskets in Dying Moments of Game to Beat Keating 21-14

J.B.A.A., James Island and Keating Men Other Winners; Four Games To-night

Keating, Victoria College, J.B.A.A. and James Island were the victors in last night's basketball games at the Centennial gymnasium. The games produced some good basketball, with the girls' game providing the most excitement.

In the first game of the evening Keating defeated the Y.M.I. 30-9. This game was rather onesided with the inexperience of the Y.M.I. mainly responsible for their loss. Keating seems to have a well-balanced team, and should go a long way in their division.

Bill Blair refereed. The teams were:

Keating—R. Kersey (8), G. Mitchell (10), L. Styan (2), Sutton (6), A. Styan (2) and N. Tanner (2).

Y.M.I.—Christian, Montuski, Neary, Collins (9), Queen, Duncan, O'Connell.

CLOSE TILL NEAR END

The Victoria College girls' defeated Keating 21-14. This game was very close up till the last minutes of play when the College stepped out and snagged four baskets in a row. The collegians are playing a very much improved game and they use a nice system of attack, although their defence is weak.

Jack Taylor refereed. The teams were:

Keating—A. Styan (8), G. Hanson, N. Styan (6), W. Griffiths and H. Griffiths.

College—A. Code (12), J. Moody (2), S. Hamersley, J. Edwards (5), R. Fields, B. Penzer and G. Stype 2.

MILD SURPRISE

J.B.A.A. pulled a mild surprise when they handed Fourex a 15-12 licking. The clubmen led all the way but if the bakers had been able to shoot the result would in all probability been reversed. The J.B.A.A. played a hard game all the way through, and made a greater majority of their shots count.

Bill Blair refereed. The teams were:

J.B.A.A. — Smith, McMichel (4), Wright (6), Thompson, Burnett (3), Thom (2).

Fourex—Rhodes, Benson, Sacton (2), Land (2), Whyte (8), and Macmurchie.

ISLANDS WIN

James Island added another victory to their string when they handed the Navy a 42-24 defeat. The Islanders have not lost a game so far this season and from the brand of ball they are playing they do not seem to be in any danger.

Jack Taylor refereed. The teams were:

James Island—Smith (16), Ross (10), Jenkinson (14), Thompson, Rivers (2) and Rowbotham.

Navy—Freeman, Barker (10), Robinson (12) Masstck (2), Orr, Stagg, McCuaig and Barr.

To-night's games to be played at the Centennial gymnasium are as follows:

7.00—Senior "C" H.B.C. Co. vs. Jmes Island.

7.50—Senior "C" Normal vs. J.B.A.A.

8.35—Ladies' "B" New Methoc vs. Fidelis.

9.25—Intermediate "A" College vs. Centennial.

HAYWARD CUP IS RETAINED BY RENNIES

Bakers Capture Trophy For Second Year By Holding Saanich Eleven to Draw

Navy and Hudson's Bay Fail to Decide Winner; Games Produce Good Soccer

For the second time in two weeks the Wednesday League soccer teams yesterday battled to draws when Rennie and Taylors drew with Saanich United at Beacon Hill 2-2 and the Hudson's Bays held the Navy to a 1-1 draw at the Royal Athletic Park.

By holding Saanich to a draw, Rennies capture the Hayward Cup for the second year in succession. Although they have had to fight hard to retain the trophy, the Bakers completed the series without tasting defeat.

NAVY HAVE EDGE

The Navy seemed to have a slight advantage over the Hudson's Bays and played a superior combination game but the speed of the department store men prevented this advantage from making the match one-sided, and both teams were forced to use all their football ability to avoid defeat.

The Bays, who were playing with only ten men, opened the game on the offensive and forced play into the sailors' half, only to have the Navy backs clear and send the ball up to the forwards, who proceeded into their opponents' territory. However, the Bays quickly returned to the sailors' end and before five minutes had elapsed Fish sent in a shot from twenty yards out that skimmed over the ground and lodged between the posts for the storemen's first goal.

From the centre the Navy took the ball into the leaders' ground, but Gardiner and Armstrong, as fullbacks, and Percy Shrimpton, in goal, prevented any score being made. After fifteen minutes of the game had elapsed both teams began to slow down slightly and play see-sawed between the two ends.

When Jack Clarke came on the field and filled the vacant place in the Bay lineup the storemen staged another rally, but Whyte, playing fullback for the Navy, broke up the rush.

The Navy went forward on a rush and Tom Watt passed all but one of the Bay defence men to kick the ball too far forward into Shrimpton's arms.

When the goalkeeper cleared, the Bays again swung into action and carried the ball into the Navy half, but were unable to score. The sailors returned, but a wild pass gave the ball to Clarke, playing halfback for the Bays, who sent it up the field with a good kick.

GOALIES PLAY WELL

Both teams fought hard until half-time, but the goalkeepers of the respective squads prevented any goals from being scored.

The Navy had a slight edge over their opponents at the beginning of the second period and Shrimpton was called upon to stop several shots in quick succession.

About three minutes after the commencement of the canto Tom Watt rushed in to take a rebound shot which bounced from Shrimpton's hands as he lay at full length along the ground after stopping Cosier's drive, and sent in a fast shot from close in without giving the Bay goalie a chance to regain his feet.

For the remainder of the game, play was fairly even and, though the Navy made several dangerous forward rushes, the excellent work of the Hudson's Bay backs and goalie prevented any goals from being scored.

Whyte, Plummer, Cosier and Roberts played well for the Navy, while Shrimpton, Fish, Mair, Gardiner and Clarke turned in good performances for the Bays.

"Scotty" McKay refereed and the teams were:

Navy—Barker, Whyte, Hall, Plummer, Roberts, Dyson, Cochrane, Robinson, T. Watt, Coles and Cosier.

PEP-O-MINT LIFE SAVERS

Juvenile and Junior Players Should Be Taught Art of Game

By PENALTY KICK

With the completion of the first section of the pre-Christmas schedule of the juvenile and junior soccer leagues comes the opportune time to bring to the notice of players some impressions gained as an associate in their company.

FINER FOOTWORK

Since the change in the off-side rule, which came into operation in the 1925-26 season, the registration of goals is made easier. Brainwork eliminated from this source could be advantageously transferred to the development of science in mid-field, thereby contributing to the restoration of fine footwork, which is the chief need of present-day local football.

TACT ESSENTIAL

Positions on the field of play are being learned and played with credit both to the teams and their managers. But more of the latter are necessary, men who know how football should be played and are willing to instill their knowledge into the minds of these young enthusiasts for one purpose—the development of purity in the art.

For questionable tactics there is a redundancy of channels which must be effectively trenched if scientific progress is to be made. And now is the time to trench them. In the education of boys considerable tact is necessary by managers, captains, supporters and referees. To successfully handle a bunch of enthusiastic youngsters whose only aim is to win games regardless of the manner in which it is done requires a firm hand, quickness of thought and discretion of action.

ELEVATION ESSENTIAL

If the juveniles are to develop into the class of players it is hoped they will be they must have men of high ability who recognize the value of sportsmanship to lead them. Shooting, heading, training for pace, control for dribbling, trapping, giving, receiving and intercepting a pass—there are a score of arts contained in superior football which call for much patience on the part of managers. A system of watching players in games and keeping a careful note of how they use or fail to take opportunities when in possession is recommended.

BLACKBOARD TUITION

Parlor talk—social gatherings of boys and managers who could explain to them by sketches what to do and how to do it at the right moment—is a suggestion worth experimenting. It is not necessary for managers and trainers to interfere with tactics on the field. Leave the boys to play, after instruction, as they know best. The real captain of a team is the personality who insists on being captain in more than name—an individual who is an instructor as well as a constructor. Granted, advice must be given, but it can be done quietly and effectively without inciting the boys to become unlawful. A quiet word of sympathy when a mistake has been made and a nod of congratulation for good play will do more than a ton of officialism.

SILENCE REWARDED

There was too much talk on the playing field at the beginning of the season, but less now. The best players of any team are those who play in silence. They are using all their ability, both technical and practical, for one purpose, refusing to allow their tongues to stem their progress. No matter whether winning or losing, whether a confrere makes a bad mistake, a goalkeeper allows a soft shot to cross his line, or whether they themselves miss an open goal, they recognize that silence is golden and are reaping their reward.

SUSPENDED ACTION

They stand in a class by themselves and will remain so just so long as unnecessary conversation is allowed to keep others outside the open door. In a moment of excitement it is easy to allow oneself to utter expressions which otherwise would be left unsaid, but the practice of strong will power will indefinitely postpone action by the arbitrator until such time as the value of silence has been grasped.

EXCITEMENT SUBDUED

The correct method of taking a place kick has probably not been brought to the notice of some players. Exuberance causes them to rush at the ball the moment the whistle sounds, but the game really commences when the ball has been kicked off, encroaching being termed ungentlemanly conduct.

WASTING TALENT

No one will blame a team for employing reasonable safety tactics in an effort to save a game, but deliberate and continuous kicking into touch and wasting of time—although perhaps legitimate under the laws of the game—cannot possibly be justified on the grounds of fair play and good sportsmanship. Those who resort to such unfairness are robbing their own forwards of opportunities just as much as the spoliation of opposition efforts. Safety play, carried to excess, is spoiling the sporting nature of football, just as did the old one-back game and may, some day, bring about a revision of the rules making deliberate touch finding a punishable offence.

SIGHTSEEING TOURS

Interesting material for thought and action can be gathered from a trip around the playing fields of the city on Saturday afternoons. It is both entertaining and educating. Especially is this so in the local juvenile soccer world, for recently ten teams were engaged in deciding their progress up or down the league ladder.

Great improvement is noticed in the development of their talent; technical knowledge, in some cases in repose, ready to be called into practice at any moment opportunity presents itself. But more enterprise is necessary: one of the many drawbacks to juvenile soccer to-day is the lack of it. The ability of many players to use either foot with equal precision is an encouraging step towards progress. No player who wishes the greatest amount of pleasure for himself and the greatest success for his team should be satisfied until he has completely mastered it.

GROUND EMPLOYMENT

The ball must be kept more on the ground. In a junior game at Hampton Road recently, and during the ninety minutes of its entertainment the ball spent the major portion of this time viewing its aerial surroundings.

Vegetable Dish

A palatable luncheon dish consists of diced carrots and turnips, boiled together, drained and covered with cream sauce and bread crumbs and baked fifteen minutes.

JUDGE RETURNS TO BENCH BUT TO MANAGE BOSTON

Emil Fuchs Replaces Hornsby at Helm of Braves; Learnt to Play on Sandlots

Boston, Nov. 8. — Judge Emil E. Fuchs, who was a New York City magistrate before he became president of the Boston Braves, has returned to the bench—in the National League.

After selling Rogers Hornsby, his last season's manager and the leading batsman in the National League, to the Chicago Cubs, the judge, who received his early baseball training on New York sandlots, was prevailed upon by his associates to become managing owner.

The trade rumors which had been circulated since the world series failed to excite Boston's baseball public much but Judge Fuchs' statement that he intended to run the Braves ball club on and off the field was received with amazement.

The Braves' executive announced the trade by showing baseball writers a letter which Hornsby had addressed to him.

GAVE HIS BEST

"I want to assure you as we part," Hornsby wrote, "that when I first suggested the Chicago trade I was actuated by a feeling of friendship, loyalty and unselfishness. I received from you the best treatment and advice together with such kindness and thoughtfulness that I leave you and your associates with deep regret. I gave the best I had in me and you always trusted and applauded me."

After announcing that he had engaged Johnny Evers, who helped to bring a world's championship to Boston in 1914 when he was captain of the Braves, as his chief assistant, Judge Fuchs expressed the hope that Evers would inspire the team with his aggressive and hustling spirit.

TILDEN IS NOW TENNIS EXILE

Famous U.S. Player Cannot Wield Racket in Any Country Under I.L.T.F.

New York., Nov. 8—Big Bill Tilden now finds himself not only an exile from the courts of his own land, but literally a man without a country so far as his right to play amateur tennis is concerned.

By order of the International Lawn Tennis Federation the ban applied to the famous United States star by the United States Lawn Tennis Association in August has been extended to its thirty-four other member nations and thus embraces the entire tennis playing world.

OUT HE GOES

This latest move in the Tilden case is revealed by the U.S.L.T.A. in the current issue of its "official bulletin," which says the international body has sent to all of the associations affiliated with it a copy of the resolution disqualifying Tilden together with an order that "conforming with our rulings you will kindly extend this action also to your association."

A glance at the world-wide membership roster of the international federation quickly shows that the only territory still available to Tilden for tournament competition comprises such countries as Russia and Abyssinia, where the citizens probably would find some difficulty in distinguishing a service ace from a lob.

HIS ONLY CHANCE

As Tilden, six times United States champion, is without a place wherein to swing his racket, the only chance for relief in sight is a possibility that the U.S.L.T.A. will decide at its February meeting to give the stormy petrel of the game another chance. Removal of the ban in this country would mean its removal elsewhere.

ERIC GEIGER'S BASKET WINS

Gives Victoria High Hoop Team Victory Over Victoria College in Exciting Game

Victoria High School basketball teams took two games from the Victoria College yesterday in the school gymnasium.

In the first game the teams battled neck and neck right up to the final whistle, when the High boys were on the long end of a 12-19 score. The schoolboys held a commanding lead at half time, but the Collegians began to pep up in the second half. The score stood 10-10 with two minutes to go, when Eric Geiger eluded his guard, to score the winning basket for High.

A FINE EXHIBITION

At the conclusion of the first game the "A" teams of the two organizations took the floor. They put up one of the best exhibitions seen on the High School floor for some time. The High boys pulled a big surprise, by handing the Collegians a 32-22 walloping, as the College is the leader in the Intermediate "A" division of the City League. The score see-sawed back and forth in the first half, but in the second the High boys took the lead and ended up ten points to the good.

The teams were:

High School, 32—McCollough 5, Forbes 18, Chapman 5, Rivers 4 and Fraser.

Southern Boxing Law Will Remain

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—California's state boxing law, permitting ten-round decision bouts and twelve-round no decision fights, will remain on the statute books.

A measure to repeal the law was on the ballot at the presidential election and the voters decided overwhelmingly against the measure, which would have returned boxing bouts to the four-round game.

A majority of 250,000 against repealing the boxing law was shown by election returns last night.

The Talk of the Town

First Lady: "Have you visited Mrs. Jones lately?"

Second Lady: "No, my dear. Why?"

First Lady: "You remember the gone-to-pieces look her kitchen had—dingy linoleum, worn floors, scratched woodwork—said she never could do anything with them because it was next to impossible to keep the children away until the varnish could dry hard?

Second Lady: "Yes, I remember."

First Lady: "Well you ought to see it now—all freshly finished bright as a new pin. You'd never recognize it!"

Second Lady: "How did she manage to do it?"

First Lady: "Why, my dear, she used the new Quick Drying Clear Satin-Glo—haven't you heard of it—it's the talk of the town. Mrs. Jones saw it advertised—got a tin down town—then when the children had gone to school one morning, she started in—finished the floor, woodwork and furniture in no time—and it was actually dry to walk on when the children came home from school."

Second Lady: "What did her husband say?"

First Lady: "Say? Why he took her to a show that night, and on Saturday bought some Satin-Glo Clear himself — refinished all the floors after the children were in bed, and by morning they were as dry as a bone. Mrs. Jones says it's wearing well too and is unaffected by hot or cold water."

Second Lady: "How wonderful! I must get a can—my cupboards need freshening up and the chairs can do with a little too."

First Lady: "I'm going to the paint store for some myself—Come along with me."

DEEP SEA, COASTWISE SHIPPING, AND RAILROAD NEWS

Hoover's Election To Spur Action On Salmon Depletion

President-elect Expected to Move An Adoption of Treaty Establishing Commission to Administer Depleted International Fishery; Restrictions on Fishing Planned Under Pact.

New hope for the rehabilitation of the Fraser River salmon fisheries, once incomparably the greatest in the world, was based here on the election of Herbert Hoover to the Presidency of the United States.

Canadians who have led the fight for more than a decade for the rehabilitation of the Fraser salmon hordes, believe that under Mr. Hoover's administration Canada and the United States will finally sign a treaty protecting these fisheries from further depletion and guaranteeing them replenishment.

As Secretary of Commerce in the Coolidge administration, Mr. Hoover has displayed an interest not only in the fisheries of the United States but also in the international fisheries of the Fraser. He has been constantly in touch with prolonged efforts to save these fisheries and is keenly sympathetic towards them.

HAS FINE RECORD

Mr. Hoover's record in the United States Government shows that he is perhaps the leading fish conservationist in America. Under his regime the salmon fisheries of Alaska, threatened with the fate of the Fraser, have been protected and brought back to their old volume. This programme in Alaska, which has been watched by fish experts all over the world, was carried out despite strong opposition in some quarters, and in the face of protests against what was called the destruction of the Alaska salmon industry. Results this year, when some of the chief streams were reopened to fishing after a closure, showed that Mr. Hoover's policy had succeeded beyong the most optimistic expectations.

DETAILS IN QUESTION

At the moment the proposed treaty to safeguard the Fraser is snarled in official red tape at Washington. The main principles were accepted tentatively by both governments long ago, but minor details have proved difficult to adjust. It is believed now, however, with Mr. Hoover in the White House, backed by complete control of Congress, that definite action will be taken on the agreement.

In effect, the treaty is expected to set up an international commission to control all fishing operations in the Fraser system, including Washintgon State waters, where the salmon hordes swim eastward on their way to the spawning beds of the Fraser. This commission would have power to halt fishing completely, with certain restrictions, and thus allow a sufficient escapement of fish to replenish the fisheries over a period of years and put them on their old basis. This, according to fish experts, would form the greateest conservation scheme undertaken in America in recent times.

BIG BROTHER PLAN MOOTED

Capt. R. G. Thornton, M.C., Arriving on Niagara to Give Addresses Here

Capt. R. G. Thornton, M.C., traveling representative of the Big Brother movement founded in Australia by Richard Linton, M.L.A., is expected to arrive here to-morrow as a passenger on board the R.M.S. Niagara. James Beatty, M.P.P., is the local representative of the movement, which has for its object the settlement of boys in agricultural occupations directly under the sponorship of their Big Brothers.

The visit of Capt. Thornton is for the purpose of starting a branch of the movement in British Columbia. Hon. F. A. Pauline, B.C. Agent-General in London, has been in communication with Mr. Beatty on the subject for some time now, and speaks highly of the results of the system as applied to Australia.

The qualifications of the Little Brothers are that they should be clean-living, physically fit, and educated and between fifteen and nineteen years of age. NIAGARA DUE AT QUARANTINE HERE EARLY SATURDAY

Twenty-four hours behind schedule, the Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara will arrive at the William Head quarantine station here on Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, from Australia and Honolulu, according to wireless advice received in the city this morning by L. D. Chetham, local agent, from Capt. Spring-Brown, commander of the liner. The liner was late in leaving Honolulu and on account of heavy weather on the Pacific was unable to make up her lost time. She will be alongside the Rithet Piers as soon after 2 o'clock as possible so that she may clear for Vancouver to enable the Empress of Russia, which is due from China and Japan shortly afterwards to dock. The Russia is due at William Head at 7 o'clock.

WATERFRONT TO HAVE HOLIDAY

Thanksgiving Will Be Real Rest For Port Workers, With No Ships In

Niagara and Empress of Russia Due Saturday and Japanese Liners Tuesday

Waterfront workers of Victoria will be able to enjoy their Thanksgiving turkey and cranberry sauce this year in peace and be real grateful, for present schedules show that no ships are due to dock here on Monday. Complete holidays like this for customs and immigration officials and longshoremen are few and far between.

Saturday, however, will see two big deepsea passenger liners in port. The Niagara is due at the William Head quarantine station at 2 a.m. from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu, and the Empress of Russia is expected from China, Japan and the Philippine Islands at 7 o'clock.

Local agents will try to have the Niagara docked and cleared for Vancouver before the Russia reaches here. This will mean an early morning rising for waterfront men as the Niagara will probably come alongside the Rithet piers between 3 and 4 o'clock. If she gets out by 7 o'clock the Russia will be able to berth about half an hour later.

Tuesday, the day after Thanksgiving, there will be two Japanese liners in port, the N.Y.K. vessel Shidzuoka Maru and the O.S.K. liner Africa Maru. Both ships are due sometime during the day but no definite word regarding their exact time of arrival has yet been received. With good weather, both ships should be in dock during the morning.

London Papers Express Views On Hoover's Election

London, Nov. 8—Herbert Hoover's experience in world affairs is what impresses the London press as the most interesting characteristic of the President-Eelect of the United States.

The London Express says Hoover will bring to the White House a first hand acquaintance with Europe and its problems not equalled by an previous President. It holds that this acquaintance will not make him any less an American, but that it is a guarantee that world politics will be approached with at least a semi-international mind.

The London Daily News thinks the real meaning of the enormous vote is that a prosperous nation has cast its vote for more prosperity and the paper wonders how this will affect the foreign policy of Hoover.

The London Herald, Labor, thinks the defeat of Smith means the death of the Democratic Party and is the judgment of the United States voters upon the unreality of United States politics in which there is no real difference between the Democrats and Republicans.

WELL-KNOWN VESSEL MAY CHANGE HANDS

Ss. SALVAGE QUEEN

Salvage Queen May Be Taken Over By Prince Rupert Firm

Northern Interests Move to Purchase Famous Old Vessel for New Freight and Passenger Service; Seek Aid of Prince Rupert People In Backing Venture.

A move is on foot in Prince Rupert to purchase the Pacific Salvage Company's steamer Salvage Queen, of Victoria, according to a wireless dispatch received here this morning from the northern city. A. C. Burdick, managing director of the Salvage Company, was absent in Vancouver to-day on business and could not be questioned regarding the proposed sale, but advices from Prince Rupert say that it will be effected if certain terms are carried out.

QUEEN SUITABLE

At the regular meeting of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade last week a proposal was made by Paul Armour, on behalf of the Prince Rupert Salvage and Towing Compahy, to put a boat in the freight and passenger service out of Prince Rupert, providing the necessary support was forthcoming. The most definite suggestion was that the Salvage Queen should be converted into a passenger boat, able to accomodate seventy persons, as well as freight. The Queen is 185 feet in length, has a twenty-six foot beam and is admirably adapted for carrying a limited number of passengers. The plan of purchasing the Queen was proposed by Capt Barney Johnson. It would cost about $100,000 to remodel and outfit the vessel. Mr. Armour's company is willing to pay half this cost providing the citizens of Prince Rupert finance the remainder.

Mr. Armour said that if the people of Prince Rupert really wanted it, he could almost guarantee that his company would pay the whole cost of the proposed steamer. But he thought that if the people of Prince Rupert wanted a service they should be willing to back the venture.

WELL-KNOWN SHIP

The report that the Queen may be sold to the Prince Rupert interests recalls the long service which that ship has given on the B.C. coast. Formerly the Tees of the C.P.R. coastwise service, she was purchased in September, 1925, by the Pacific Salvage Company, which had her fitted for salvage work. Since that time she has performed several notable salvage operations, particularly the salvage of the steamer Tatjana, which foundered on a reef in Barkley Sound about four years ago.

When with the C.P.R., the old Tees was one of the best known and most popular vessels plying out of this port to the west coast of Vancouver Island. Through all the rough weather of the West Coast the Tees never had any serious mishap and in all the years in which she was in service she was known as one of the most trusted vessels for these waters. It was only about six years ago that she was taken off this run to give way to faster and more luxurious vessels, which increasing trade and the tourist business made imperative.

The report that the present Salvage Queen is to leave Victoria started rumors to the effect that another steamer will be built for the Salvage Company to operate out of this port.

COAST SERVICE CHANGES MADE

Accident to Princess Royal Makes Alterations in Sailings Necessary

Princess Kathleen to Remain on Triangle Run Few Days Longer

Due to the recent accident to the Princess Royal in Vancouver a few days ago, the Princess Kathleen will not be withdrawn from the triangle run tomorrow as was planned, it was announced this morning by C.P.R. officials at the Belleville Street headquarters of the company. The Kathleen will remain on the run until the Royal is repaired and the Coast schedule is back to normal.

The Princess Mary, which should have gone on the Alaska run this week, is taking the place of the Royal on the Vancouver-Prince Rupert run and the Princess Alice is taking the place of the Mary on the Vancouver-Skagway route. The Alice will leave Vancouver on Tuesday evening, November 13, one day behind schedule. It is expected that the Royal will be able to take the next Prince Rupert sailing and enable the Mary to resume her Alaska schedule later in the month.

EXTRA NIGHT BOATS

The Princess Alice and the Princess Adelaide are now maintaining the night run between Victoria and Vancouver. To handle the extra rush for the Thanksgiving holiday, the Princess Louise and the Princess Alice will sail from Victoria to-night for Vancouver and from Vancouver to-morrow night for Victoria. An extra boat will also be put on the run from Vancouver to Victoria Monday night. The Adelaide and the Louise will take the midnight run when the Alice goes on the Northern schedule.

LOWER FARES FOR NEW SETTLERS

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The question of cheaper ocean rates for British immigrants will be definitely settled November 1, it was learned to-day at the Department of Immigration. That date has been set for a final conference in London between the British Board of Trade, the Empire Settlement Board, the steamship companies and W. J. Egan, Canadian Deputy Minister of Immigration.

The steamship companies are being urged to institute a £10 third-class rate for all British migrants to Canada who are unable to take advantage of the present "assisted passage" schemes.

Under the Empire settlement scheme farm and household workers benefit by a rate of £2, reduced by contributions from the British and Canadian Governments and a rebate by the transportation companies. Prior to the war the rate was approximately $30. It is now $91.15.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—After a tuning up process of a week's duration at the Hunter's Point yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the United States navy aeroplane carrier Lexington, reputed to be one of the fastest vessels afloat, is ready to show her maximum speed. She will leave here early Friday for San Diego, and on her way south she is due to have her final trial tests. The Lexington has already shown a speed of thirty knots. On her way to the Southern California base it is expected that she will reach thirty-four knots.

The liner Taiyo Maru of the N.Y.K. Line is due to arrive here from the Orient Monday, bringing 272 passengers and a heavy cargo that includes 3,600 bales of raw Japanese silk. Among the passengers on the vessel are several Rotarians returning from the second Pacific Rotary conference, recently held in Tokio.

The liner Siberia Maru, also of the N.Y.K. Line, sailed from here to-day for the Orient with 472 passengers.

The ten surviving members of an English family have a total age of 753 years, and all are wine-drinkers in moderation. Their grandfather lived to be eighty-five and drank an imperial pint of port every day.

Astronomical clocks control a hundred miles of street lights in Oak Park, Illinois. At sunset they automatically turn on the lights, and at sunrise turn them off.

EMMA WILL DOCK EARLY TO-NIGHT FROM CALIFORNIA

Earlier than expected, the Pacific Steamship Company's coastwise liner Emma Alexander will dock at the Rithet Piers here this evening at 8.30 o'clock, according to a wireless dispatch received in the city this morning by W. M. Allan local agent, from Capt. G. A. Harris, master of the liner. For this port the Emma has forty passengers and sixty-five tons of general cargo. After discharging here she will proceed to Seattle.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

COMMANDER AT WORK POINT IS PROMOTED

Brig.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton Succeeds Major-General H. C. Thacker at Ottawa

Saw Distinguished Service During War and Has Notable Military Career

Brigadier-General A. G. L. McNaughton, C.M.G., D.S.O., officer commanding Military District No. 11 since last May, will succeed Major-General H. C. Thacker, whose retirement as chief of the General staff, Department of National Defence, is announced by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence in the Federal Government.

BRIG.-GEN. A. G. L. McNAUGHTON, D.S.O., C.M.G.

To-day General McNaughton is receiving the congratulations of all ratings at the Work Point Barracks and from the host of friends he had made during the comparatively short period he has been in command of the military district here. The successor to General McNaughtin in Victoria has not yet been announced by the department at Ottawa.

MILITARY CAREER

Brigadier-General McNaughton has a distinguished military career and served with distinction in France as a commander with the Canadian forces. His early military service included a commission as a provisional lieutenant in the Canadian Militia, and from May, 1909, to July of the same year, he was attached to the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, obtaining his lieutenant's artillery certificate, all of which culminated in his qualifying for a commission in the Imperial Army on May 2, 1910.

He was transferred during the same year from the general list of the Canadian Militia to the Tnfrd (Montreal) Field Battery, obtaining his captain's artillery certificate, which was followed by his promotion to the rank of captain in the Spring of 1911.

ORGANIZED BATTERY

He was given the rank of major in June, 1913, and remained in command of the Third Field Battery until 1914. He organized the Fourth Battery, C.F.A., when war broke out in Europe and proceeded overseas with the First Division of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

In February, 1915, he was wounded at the second battle of Ypres. He was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel on March 11, 1916, and was made counter-battery staff officer to the Canadian Corps in March, 1918. In October of the same year he was appointed general officer commanding the Canadian Corps Heavy Artillery. He was three times mentioned in dispatches and was awarded the D.S.O. and also the C.M.G.

REORGANIZATION WORK

Brigadier-General McNaughton, since the war, has been a member of the committee for the reorganization of the Canadian Militia Forces, in which connection he visited this city in 1919. The following year he was given the direction of military training, and became deputy chief of the general staff at Ottawa in January, 1923.

He has been honored by a number of university degrees and is an associate member of scientific associations in Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Brigadier-General McNaughton will take over his new duties at Ottawa early in the new year.

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock a sale of work will be held in the club house of the Prince Edward Branch of the Canadian Legion, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary. The members have been working very hard, and many pretty articles, suitable for Christmas presents, children's clothes and household linens will be on sale.

An informal dance will be held at the same time with good music arranged by members of the Prince Edward Branch. Everyone will be welcome, and a jolly evening is assured to all.

Pender Island

Pender Island, Nov. 8—The annual Hallowe'en party for the children, held under the auspices of the Parent-teacher Association in Hope Bay Hall, was a great success and was much enjoyed by the large number of children and parents present. Games and stunts of various sorts were carried on in groups until 9 p.m. when refreshments were served. Early in the evening the children all joined in a grand parade before the group of judges, whose task of picking the prize-winners was not an easy one. First prize for girls was won by Gwen Stigings as "Hallowe'en," and second prize by Sybil Conery, as a pierrette; first prize for boys went to Leslie Bowerman, as an Indian chief, and second prize to Bobby Johnston, also an Indian chief.

—a delightful ocean voyage to California!

THERE is nothing like an ocean voyage to lift one out of the rut of routine. An Admiral Liner is a world in itself—a cleaner, fresher, different world—a world with worry and care left out! There's music and dancing . . . something doing every minute and plenty of room in which to do it. What a delightful contrast to the tedium of ordinary travel. Great Admiral Liners sail for San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego every Sunday morning — the low fares include your berth and meals!

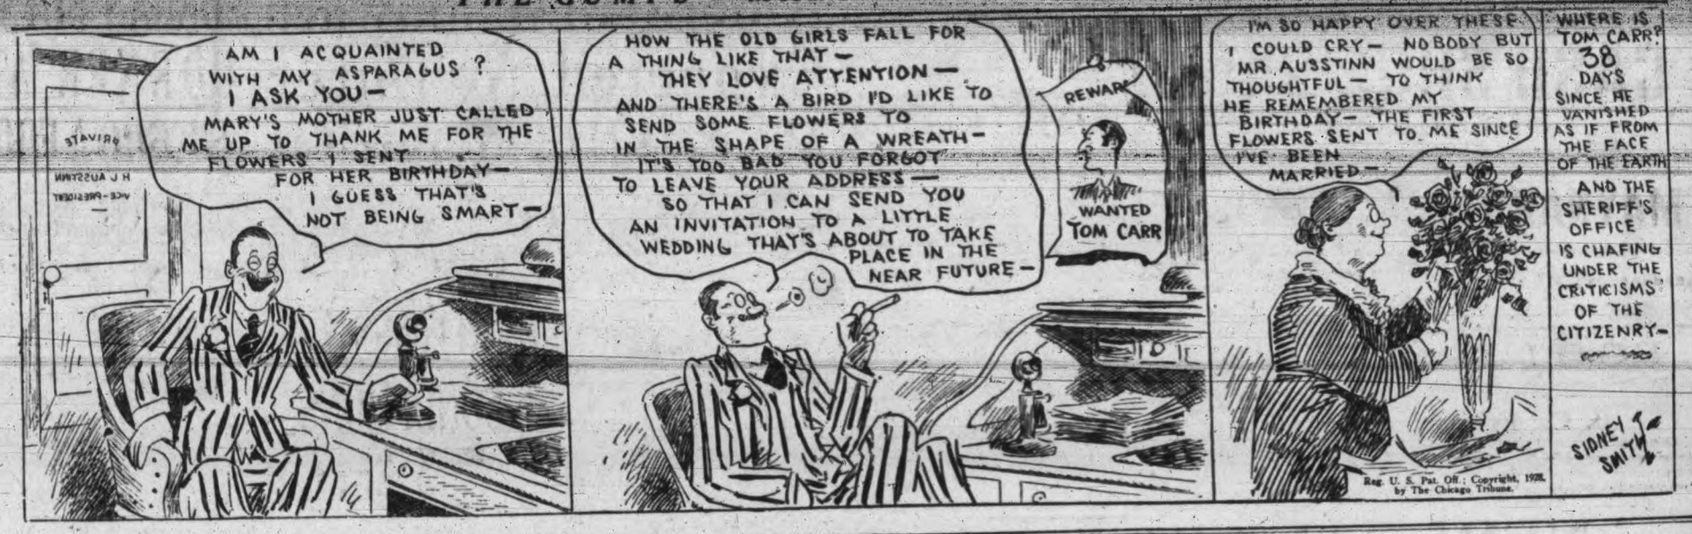
THE GUMPS—"MANY HAPPY RETURNS"



New Westminster Liquor Statement

New Westminster, Nov. 8.—During 1927 and 1928 not one complaint, either by letter or by delegation, was received by the Board of Police Commissioners regarding the disgraceful liquor conditions in this city, Attorney-General Pooley is informed in a reply sent by the commissioners to his ultimatum to clean up the local liquor situation.

The commissioners state their only instructions to the chief of police were to carry out the law without fear or favor. The commission expresses every confidence in the chief and the other members of the police force.

The reply also states the commission has no objection to the provincial police taking part in police work here at any time they deem they can improve conditions and say it will not be necessary to send any notice in advance.

This morning Attorney-General Pooley had not received the communication from New Westminster.

TELLS HISTORY OF AMERICA BY USE OF SKULLS

Dr. Hrdlicka Describes Real Discovery, Not Considered Adventurous at First

New York, Nov. 8—The real discovery of America, by primitive men who long ago crossed the icy waters of Bering Strait from Siberia, was probably not looked upon as any great adventure at all. It was almost as simple and natural a step as crossing New York harbor might be, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, told the International Congress of Americanists. This problem of why and how the first human beings came into America has long been a great point of controversy, but Dr. Hrdlicka stated that new evidence has accumulated in such quantities that conclusions can at last be drawn with reasonable certainty. An official report on many hundreds of skulls, a large part of which were collected personally by Dr. Hrdlicka in western and Arctic Alaska recently, will soon be issued, he stated.

"There could have been, it is now certain, no great single wave of the immigrants that became the first Americans," he said. "Instead, there was a steady and natural passing over of small groups of people, and this process lasted until recent times. Siberia is an inhospitable region, where famine and cold always threaten. Less than thirty miles across, the people who wandered or were forced by others into northeast Siberia could see signs of a more pleasing shore, freer of snow and ice. The winds from that direction were warmer. Driftwood floated from that side. There were islands which served as stepping stones, and it was easy in suitable weather for skin boats to carry groups of these Asiatics safely across the northwest passage."

LOOKED FOR WARMER CLIMES

They did not necessarily stop in Alaska, or stop for a long time, Dr. Hrdlicka said, but mostly in all probability, kept on down the coast, looking for warmer and pleasanter places ahead, and so the new world was gradually populated.

"Northeasternmost parts of Asia presented the only feasible route into America for the original inhabitants in their state of culture," the anthropologist declared. "The Asiatic ancestry of the Indian and Eskimo is demonstrated by much evidence obtained recently from old burials."

There are now more than thirteen thousand skulls in the Smithinsonian collection, most of them American. Study of this vast material shows that the Eskimo and Indian are related, like two fingers that extend from one hand, Dr. Hrdlicka said, and he pointed out that many typical Indian as well as Eskimo faces bear a striking resemblance to Mongoloid tribesmen of the Siberian wilderness to-day.

COVERING FIVE THOUSAND YEARS

"The population of America has been established in the course of only a few thousand years, probably no more than 5,000," he concluded. "It would be a fine thing for anthropologists to find evidence of ancient man in this country, but no human bones indicating such antiquity have ever been discovered. Considering the large number of skilled observers who have been searching for clues to prehistoric life in this country it would seem likely that some ancient skeletal remains or other indisputable evidence of ancient man would have appeared by this time if there were any here.

"Another important point which now can be demonstrated through collections made during the last few years, is that the people coming over the Bering Strait and Sea were not crude barbarians, but were bringing with them a rich and highly developed culture, exceeding that of the Eskimo or Alaskan Indian of the present time. This suggests strongly that the origin of the native cultures on this continent, just as the diversification of languages, may not have been wholly evolved on American soil, as was hitherto believed."

HIDING NUMBERS

Cut little squares of paper and number them 1, 2, 3, and so forth. Give each child one piece of paper and ask him to add his initials to the number on it and then to hide it as quickly and as quietly as possible. As soon as each child has hidden his piece, he goes to a corner of the room and sits down quietly. When all the children are sitting thus, it is time to begin the hunt. The point is to find the number that follows your number. The child who finds the correct number first wins.

DUCKS

A pillow's good for somersaults,
Of a sofa. Or a bed.
But when a duck stands upside down
He likes a puddle for his head.

Japanese Doll Festival Pretty

All of the large stores of Japan display dolls dressed in ceremonial robes, besides toys in profusion, at the time of O Hina Matsuri, the girls' festival. This takes place on the third day of the third month, according to the old lunar calendar. At this time of year the peach trees are in full bloom, so that the feast is sometimes known as the peach blossom festival.

In the bright Spring sunshine crowds of people with happy, laughing faces throng the Ginza, the main street of Tokio. Little girls, dressed in their gayest Spring kimonos, decorated with designs of peach and cherry blossoms, gaze eagerly into the shop windows.

The custom is of great antiquity and was originally a Shinto purification ceremony. A crude image of a man was made from hemp. The worshiper who performed the ceremony of purification rubbed himself all over with this image and then threw it into a running stream. The image was supposed to carry away with it all sickness, sins and evil spirits. A similar ceremony is performed at the present time at Shinto shrines, and the day is devoted to exorcising evil spirits. As time went on, Ama-katsu, the image, became known as the special protector of children.

In all Japanese homes on this day presents of dolls are made to the little girls. Offerings of red and white rice cakes, fruits and sweet white rice wine are presented to the gods of the household shrine. Peach trees are supposed to possess the power of keeping evil spirits at a distance, so the house and family altar are decorated with blossoming peach branches. The peach blossom, in shape and color, is associated with girls, just as the cherry blossom is the flower of the samurai or warrior.

A dais with five steps is erected in the best room of the house. On this the dolls are displayed, dressed as historical characters and court ladies, with their retinues, furniture and cooking utensils all complete.

The Emperor and Empress dolls, dressed in ceremonial robes, sit on the top step in solitary grandeur. Below stand the court ladies, ministers and courtiers. At one side are the court musicians with their instruments. At the bottom of the dais an orange tree and a cherry tree are placed on either side of the steps. This is in imitation of the orange and cherry trees which grow on either side of the steps leading to the throne room of the old imperial palace in Kioto.

Small Japanese girls take great pride in this display of dolls. They are dressed in their best and gayest Spring kimonos, their hair is as glossy as black lacquer, their little faces are painted and rouged, and their lower lips are reddened until they look like little peach blossoms themselves. Small Aki-Ko will come forward to greet the visitor, bow and shyly offer rice cakes and sweet white sake, or tiny cups of green tea, in bowls no bigger than a doll's teacup. For on this day little daughter is the hostess, and she exhibits all the grace and charm of manner of her grown-up sister.—New York Times.

WAR OFFICE HAS PERFECTED TRUCK

Pictures Show How Powerful Machine Covers Ground Where Old Type Stalls

Operations of six-wheel motor trucks, which have been perfected in England under experts of the War Office, were shown on the screen in the Members Room at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. They were viewed by members of the Government and officials of the Lands Department.

Major P. Hennesy D.S.O., M.C., Work Point Barracks, explained that there are no patent rights in connection with the powerful truck and all improvements that have been effected as the result of experiments are at the disposal of manufacturers in general. The Johnson Gravel Company, of Victoria is using one, he said, made by the Leyland Company and imported from the Old Country.

The only restriction placed on their manufacture is that in case of war the government shall have the privilege of using them, if they are required.

The pictures demonstrate the power of the new trucks compared with old models. They show old trucks in difficulties and stuck on grades with the new trucks surmounting the same obstacles with ease.

Nickel Covers Tiniest Watch In the World

The tiniest watch in the world is on its way to Victoria. It is so small that it can be hidden under a five-cent piece, that is, the small Canadian five-cent piece, not the large United States nickel. The watch is being shipped to Joseph Rose, jeweler, of 1013 Government Street, and is expected to arrive Tuesday. It is an exact replica of the one worn by Queen Marie of Roumania, and although it is so tiny it is said to be a perfect timekeeper. The Roumanian Queen recently wrote the manufacturers complimenting them on the exquisite appearance of the little watch and on its time-keeping qaulities.

Alderman Woodward Expected to Enter Mayoralty Contest

Many Election Rallies to be Held by Candidates Aspiring to Civic Honors In December Elections; Radio Campaigning to Play Big Part In Forthcoming Tests.

Enntry of Alderman Eugene S. Woodward into the race for the Mayoralty at the December civic elections here is regarded as highly probable, according to circles close to the chairman of the city water committee, and usually well informed.

Friends of Alderman Woodward have openly predicted for some time that he would enter the Mayoralty contest this year, and would make a whirlwind campaign early in December on important new issues. Asked for a statement to-day, Alderman Woodward declined to discuss the reports that his name would go before the people in the Mayoralty contest. But he would not deny that he was considering his position, or that his entry into the ring would be altogether unlikely. Earlier in the year, during council debates, Mr. Woodward was cited by his colleagues as one having an eye on Mayoralty honors, but refused to be drawn on the subject.

FOUR CANDIDATES?

If Alderman Woodward should decide to enter the Mayoralty contest a four-corner campaign for the seat would occur, with Alderman P. R. Brown, Herbert Anscomb and John Dean as the other candidates.

With the offical nominations less than a month away, on December 6, and the election itself to take place on December 13, campaign plans were being broached in many circles in the city to-day.

Of interest to all candidates for civic office this year is the announcement by G. W. Deaville, of Victoria Broadcasting Association, that the facilities of radio station CFCT will be placed freely at the disposal of the candidates one night before the election. On this occasion every candidate will be invited to speak over the radio, as the voluntary contribution of the station to public service.

PUBLIC REPORT PLANNED

Somewhat apart from the election issues, but of interest to those following city affairs, is the intimation of Mayor J. C. Pendray to-day that in all likelihood the City Council will repeat its action of last year, when a public meeting was called at which the mayor and council for 1927 gave a joint account of their stewardship.

Election rallies mentioned to date, and still subject to last-minuate ratification, include meetings at the Royal Victoria Theatre, suggested by John Dean, at one of which a city manager expert would be the principal speaker. Alderman P. R. Brown has already announced a rally at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms for December 12, when other candidates will be invited to share his platform. Mr. Brown has also arranged to speak over CFCT on December 6 and 7, and December 10 and 11 in the evenings.

TO PLAN CAMPAIGN

Supporters of Mr. Anscomb, ex-reeve of Oak Bay, called a meeting for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Belmont House board room, where his campaign will be mapped out.

From these and other indications it appears that the chief interest in the civic elections will centre around the contest for the office of chief magistrate. The Mayoralty election is always the most keenly followed by the electorate, and this year, with a plurality of candidates, a keen fight is anticipated for the chief honors within the gift of the electorate.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Pre-election rumors, increasing as the date of the polls draws near, were busy again to-day with the names of other candidates for office. Possible additions to those who will run for school trusteeships include the names of Kenneth Ferguson, and W. H. Kinsman, mentioned by their friends.

For the council, the possibility of the return of Ex-alderman H. C. Holmes into the field was being freely mentioned, though the report could not be confirmed. P. R. Leighton, who ran for alimermanic honors last year and had announced his intention of standing again this year, has withdrawn from the field, it is understood, due to pressure of private business.

FIRE CONTROL IS DETAILED

Underwriters File List of Specific Changes Called Desirable Here

Means whereby the city can reduce 889 debit points in the score of 1,440 against it in the recent fire insurance survey by the engineers of the B.C. Underwriters Association, fire branch, are indicated in a letter from the underwriters which is now being studied at the City Hall. The corporation must reduce the debit points by 432 to be entitled to any reduction at this time, it was stated by officers of the association in the recent conference.

The specified allowances for various points as detailed by the underwriters show a total of 285 points affecting waterworks, 350 dealing with the fire department, 74 for changes in the alarm system, 40 for the electrical department, 30 for heating and lighting laws, 40 for fire prevention, 60 for by-laws, and 10 for the rehabilitation of the police alarm signals. The major debits are listed as insufficient men on the fire fighting force and insufficient apparatus.

The recent conference, which cleared the air on the whole issue, will be followed by a further conference, this time directly between the city Council and the underwriters, it is understood.

Chapter Bridge.—Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, I.O.D.E., Chapter, intend holding an evening of bridge on Friday next at 8 o'clock at Mrs. E. Wootten's home. Members and any desirous of playing are requested to telephone 4615R. Players are to bring cards and score cards.

MARITIMES CONDITIONS NOW BETTER

Causes of Dissatisfaction Reviewed By W. G. Ernst, M.P.

Canadian and Rotary Clubs Hear of Difficulties Overcome at Luncheon To-day

Throwing a strong light upon the difficulties which have faced the three Maritime Provinces—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island—W. G. Ernst, of Bridgwater, Nova Scotia, member of Parliamtnt for Queens-Lunenburg, this afternoon addressed a joint luncheon of the Canadian Club and the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel. Kenneth Ferguson, of the Canadian Club, officiated as chairman.

In an address which closed in optimistic vein, Mr. Ernst showed that the advancement of Canada as a whole depended upon development in mere favored areas of a spirit of consideration for the difficulties of important districts.

Mr. Ernst pointed out that Canada is a physical unit from the boundary of New Brunswick and Quebec. The Maritime Provinces are separated from the mass of Canada by Maine, territory given the United States, the only connecting link being the Gaspe Peninsula which is only thirty miles wide in places.

Because of this physical condition freight haulage by the Canadian National Railway involves 250 miles additional transit.

FEW IMMIGRANTS

The great tide of immigration experienced by Canada since 1900 has passed by the Maritimes, practically the whole population being descended from pioneer stock.

Farmers mostly practice mixed agriculture and suffer from lack of markets, while the Pacific Coast fisheries have now passed the Maritimes in value. Manufactures cover a wide range, mostly for Canadian consumption.

Prior to Confederation, prosperity had been notable in the Maritime Provinces. The wooden ships of Nova Scotia sailed the world round, and political leaders anticipated 500,000 Maritimes' seamen would be counted before long. That expectation failed when the wooden ship was superseded.

NEVER REALIZED

To the Maritimes Confederation was held out by Ontario and Quebec as a means to open great markets to the industries of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Those pictures of prosperity, drawn in good faith, have never been realized, said Mr. Ernst.

The agitation for secession was reviewed, Mr. Ernst portraying the stagnation which followed adoption by the United States of the Fordney-McCumber tariff. Emigration of young people and other factors in the dissatisfaction were mentioned.

LARGER SUBSIDIES

Believing the difficulties of the Maritimes could be solved within Confederation, a Royal Commission had been formed to investigate. The report presented by the Duncan Commission showed that increased subsidies to the three Maritime Provinces were warranted, because of lack of provincial lands. The three Eastern Provinces had made possible the development of Canada, with addition of great land areas to other Western Provinces. The Maritimes were therefore entitled to a "quid pro quo" in lieu of land.

Mr. Ernst reveiwed the grounds whereon the Duncan Commission advised that freight rates on westbound traffic should be twenty per cent less than on eastbound goods. The effect was already notable in improved conditions.

WINTER PORTS

The Duncan Commission had recommended payment by the Dominion of a bounty on coal, equal to the duty imposed, but this had not been given effect. Also awaiting action was the recommendation that Halifax and St. John be established as Canada's Winter ports, by concessions which would divert trade from Boston and Portland.

"Do not think I come from the Maritimes in any spirit of pessimism. Conditions there are now better than I can remember," said Mr. Ernst in closing.

Expressing appreciation of Mr. Ernst's address Herbert Anscomb, president of the Rotary Club, suggested that retention of the Duncan Commission by this Province on a commission basis, would be a good move by the Premier in his efforts to attain for British Columbia a larger subsidy from the Federal Government.

The luncheon was marked by an unusually large attendance.

Appointment of a full-time plumbing inspector to take over the control of inspections made by the city on all plumbing contracts is urged upon the City Council in a letter from the Trades and Labor Council of Victoria. Alderman E. S. Woodward will speak to the recommendation before the council on Tuesday, it is understood. Owing to the intervention of the holiday on Monday, the regular council meeting is to be held on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

London, Nov. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—It was revealed to-day that the Prince of Wales is paying the expenses of his present extended tour of East and South Africa from his own private funds. The cost will be approximately $25,000. He will reach Capetown about the beginning of the new year.

MORGAN BUYS CORNER AT $1,600 A FOOT

Coal Merchant Acquires Douglas-Johnson Corner

New Building Covering Half City Block to Be Erected

W. L. Morgan, coal merchant, to-day completed the purchase of the southwest corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets, negotiations for which were announced in The Victoria Times a few weeks ago.

The corner taken in to-day's deal has a frontage of 30 feet on Douglas and runs back to a depth of 120 feet. The price paid was reported at $50,000, or more than $1,600 a front foot.

TO RENOVATE BLOCK

Mr. Morgan announced this afternoon that the whole half block now owned by him would be almost immediately improved. He said that the present buildings would be torn down and a two-story, terra cotta finished structure erected. He did not care to say at the present time just what mercantile firm it was expected would occupy the structure.

R. H. Woods and H. E. Strood, operating the England Bakery at 635½ Fort Street, to-day bought the two-story building at 724-726 Fort Street, occupied by a furniture store on the ground floor and by Harmony Hall on the second story. They paid $16,000 for the property, which has a frontage of thirty feet. The building is a modern brick structure. Mr. Wood and Mrs. Strood will move their bakery business into the building next month and occupy the whole main floor.

PLANS TO BUILD

The vacant lot next to this property, which was sold in the reverted land sale, was bought yesterday by Eli Bean for $8,000. Mr. Bean plans to build there.

The two lots on the northwest corner of Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Street and running back to Mason Street, the whole area formerly occupied by a wooden tabernacle for revival services, has been cleaned up and improved by Fred Landsberg and H. R. Ella, the owners, for a $12,000 deal.

WALTER HAGEN IN THE ROUGH ON TRIP OVER

Johnny Farrell and Rest of Party Felt Effect of Port Angeles Crossing

"The Haig" Says Victoria Courses Among Best He Has Ever Played Over

"The elements are not so kind to us to-day as on previous visits, but we are always assured of a hearty welcome in Victoria, and that makes up for any discrepancies in the weather," declared Walter Hagan, British open golf champion, after disembarking from the steamer Iroquois and registering at the Empress Hotel this morning. Looking bronzed and in the pink of condition, the champion forgot the rain as he enjoyed his delayed breakfast in company with Johnny Farrell, United States open champion; Bon Stein, former western and P.N.W. amateur champion, and Robert Harlow, Hagen's business manager.

At the Colwood Golf and Country Club this afternoon, Hagen and Harold Lineham are playing Farrell and Bon Stein in an eighteen-hole exhibition match.

SAYS COLWOOD FINE COURSE

"I am looking forward to my game at Colwood, as I remember it as one of the finest courses I have ever played over," said the British title holder this morning. "I understand the Colwood course has been greatly improved since my last visit."

THIRD VISIT HERE

"This is my third visit to Victoria and my last visit I played over the Uplands course, a course which gave me the impression of great possibilities."

IN THE ROUGH

"Look at Johnny over there, he was 'in the rough' all the way over," exclaimed Hagen, pointing to Farrell, known as the best dressed golfer in the United States, who had already started to practice the tonsorial art in the lavishly-appointed bathroom.

Johnny did not suffer from mal-demer, but he admitted that he came perilously near to it.

"We could hardly tell whether we were in a Zeppelin or not," said Walter in explaining the roll of the steamer during the passage from Port Angeles.

"It was the roughest trip I have ever made across, and I have been here a few times," was the comment of Bon Stein.

ANTICIPATE DUCK SHOOTING

To-night the Hagen party will take the boat to Vancouver, where they will play over the Langara course, with Dave Black and "Scotty" Sutherland, as opponents.

On Saturday they propose to go on to Bellingham to enjoy a day's duck shooting. Later they will go to Portland and then on to San Francisco.

At a well-attended meeting of Lodge No. 1, A.O.U.W., last night a stirring address was delivered by Bro. Landsberg who emphasized the fact that the excellent life insurance and other features of the order, covering over forty years activities here, only required to be better known in British Columbia by the people generally and there would be a great increase in the membership in this old solid benevolent and fraternal order.

Belleville, Ont., Nov. 8.—Harry Henley, thirteen, Millbridge, Ont., boy charged with manslaughter in connection with the shooting of his elder brother James, on October 12, was committed yesterday for trial following a preliminary hearing held here.

Jury Blames Driver For Fatal Accident

Vancouver, Nov. 8—"From the evidence submitted we are of the opinion the accident was due to the carelessness of the driver, Alexander Williamson," read the verdict of a coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death of William Ross Buck, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Buck, Thirty-Fourth Avenue East. The boy died in a hospital Monday as the result of injuries received Saturday at 11 p.m. when struck by Williamson's automobile on Thirty-Fourth Avenue, near Knight Road.

Williamson, who resides at Kingsway, has been charged by the South Vancouver police with manslaughter. Bail has been set at $5,000.

Seattle, Nov. 8.—One of the brightest events on the programme at the ice pageant at the Seattle Civic Auditorium last night was the exhibition sprint between Percy Williams, Vancouver, British Columbia, Olympic champion, and W. Scott, a University of British Columbia track star. Williams won the fifty-yard dash easily from his companion.

Oaks Leading In "Y" Sawdust Basketball Loop

The first round of the Y.M.C.A. Sawdust Basketball League was completed at the Y.M.C.A. last night, when the Cedars trimmed the Pines 36 to 28, and the Oaks nosed out the Firs 28 to 15.

This leaves the league standing as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
Oaks	3	0	6
Cedars	2	1	4
Pines	1	2	2
Firs	0	3	0

In the first game Moore of the Oaks scored twelve points of his team's total, and Acres was high man with eight points for the losers.

The second game was a hard checking affair with Bob Peden scoring sixteen points for the winners. Engleson and Plater shone for the losers and combined well to score a number of fine baskets.

W. Johnson, A. McKinnon and W. W. Martin were the officials in charge.

The teams were as follows:

Oaks—Moore, Gordon, Evans, Davey and MacEachern.

Firs—Darbyshire, Brooks, Acres, Bailey, Smith and Mawle.

Cedars—Peden, Wright, Butler, Harwood and Cook.

Pines—Engleson, Cameron, Plater, Bradshaw, Green, Wood and McPherson.

The second round of the league will commence next Wednesday.

Sunday Sport Is Legalized in Mass.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The count on the Sunday sports law referendum at Tuesday's election had progressed sufficiently to-day to assure its supporters that the measure had swept the state.

Paid sports particularly baseball and soccer, but not including boxing or automobile racing, will be legally permissible in all cities of the state next year which elect to grant local licenses. Returns from three-fourths of the total precincts in the state showed a yes vote of 757,353; no 304,738. In this city the vote was better than three to one in favor of the referendum, which will make possible major league baseball games here next season.

Heretofore, both Boston clubs have suffered the financial handicap of not being able to realize on the large crowds which patronize the game on Sundays in other league cities.

Removal of Duty On Machinery For Pottery is Urged

Ottawa, Nov. 8—The Tariff Advisory Board will hold its next session here November 20.

At yesterday's session of the board D. J. Deachman of Ottawa, representing the International Clay Products Ltd., Estevan, Sask., asked for removal of the existing duty on pottery machinery, which ranges from 27½ to 30 per cent. There was no opposition to the application.

Pottery machinery is not manufactured in Canada owing to its present limited demand and it was submitted that removal of the duty would permit the Canadian clay products manufacturers to compete on a more equitable basis with the United States manufacturers.

HAYWARD CUP IS RETAINED BY RENNIES

Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton, Gardiner, Armstrong, Kirchin, Clarke, Oakman, Cull, Mair, Raven, Tish and Woodley.

SAANICH HOLDS BAKERS

In one of the best games witnessed for some time the Saanich United held the fast-moving Rennie & Taylor team to a two-all draw. The bakers scored once in the first half and once in the second, while both of Saanich's counters were registered in the second period. The game was featured by the excellent defence put up by each team. Time and time again the forwards would break loose, only to run into the hard-working halfback lines, or to have beautiful shots pulled down by the sensational goaltending of both goalies.

BOMBARD GOAL

Saanich started the game with only ten men and the bakers immediately began a bombardment on their goal, which, however, came to naught. After about ten minutes of play Haggen arrived to complete the United roster, and the game settled down to a real battle. Play went from end to end and Davies of the bakers gave the fans a treat when he took the ball along the wing, closed in and worked his way in to shoot. Tooby, however, was right on his toes and made a wonderful save, tipping the ball over the bar. On the resulting corner, Haggen sent the ball down to his forwards, but the bakers' goalie cleared. Saanich had a glorious chance to score but were only able to force two corners. About two minutes before half-time a beautiful piece of combination work organized by Al. McKinnon resulted in Almond scoring the first Rennie goal on a shot which Tooby had no chance to save.

TOOBY SAVES

On resumption of play Tooby pulled of another wonderful save and was given a big hand by the spectators. Play stayed in the centre of the field for a while with neither side breaking away. On a penalty kick the Saanich boys went down the field and, on a pass from Love, Barry netted the ball for the equalizing goal.

A few minutes later the Rennies scored a lucky goal when Tooby fumbled the ball and the opposing forwards bundled Tooby, ball and all, into the net.

The Saanich boys began an attack on the bakers' goal and it was little short of miraculous that they did not score. During a second bombardment Tupman had the misfortune to trip Love in the restricted area and the United were awarded a penalty. "Teddy" Hawkes took the kick and made no mistake when he planted the ball squarely out of Geddes's reach for the last and tying goal of the game.

Saanich again exerted pressure on the bakers' goal and only a fine save by Geddes and remarkable clearances by the two backs prevented further scoring. Play at the final whistle was in the centre of the field.

Hewiston refereed and the teams lined up as follows:

Saanich United—Tooby, Haggen, Ashe, Stonier, Moir, Spellar, Brown, Barry, Hawkes, Love and Hinchliffe.

Rennie & Taylor—Geddes, Gilbert, Tupman, Newman, Wright, Stewart, Taylor, McKinnon, Almond, Nex and Davies.

A Scotch professional golfer, after fourteen years of retirement, has resumed the game. Evidently he found his ball.

The increasing use of pistol-silencers by American gunmen is, of course, the outcome of complaints that the noise of murders was becoming a nuisance!

A scientist states that the Romans played a game something like football—and so do a lot of teams in this country.

CO-OPERATION IN INDUSTRY URGED

All-Canadian Congress of Labor Suggests New Trade Union-capital Steps

Toronto, Nov. 8.—Resumption of relations between the Canadian and Russian Governments in the interests of Canadian trade was urged in a resolution adopted at yesterday's session of the annual convention of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor here. Such action would be beneficial to Canadian workers, it was argued.

Denial of a report that delegates of a communistic nature were at the convention was made by A. R. Mosher, president of the Congress.

"We embrace no communists in this congress and we have no use for them," he said. "We are a united brotherhood, working for Canadian unions and representing Canadian labor."

CO-OPERATION PLANNED

After a protracted debate the congress endorsed the policy of President A. R. Mosher and his executive board, which urged the national trade union movement to give effect to a programme of co-operation between capital and labor, "whatever mutuality of interest can be demonstrated."

The report of the executive board asking the convention to concur in efforts to secure representation for the congress on the C.N.R. and at the International Labor Office was adopted

EARLY COLONIAL LINK IS BROKEN

Late Miss W. A. B. McKenzie Had Resided Here Seventy-five Years

Severing a link with the early colonial history of Vancouver Island, Miss Wilhemina Ann Blair McKenzie, aged seventy-six, passed away yesterday at the family residence at Lake Hill.

The late Miss McKenzie was the last surviving member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKenzie of Craigflower, who played a large part in the organization of the Puget Sound Agricultural Society, the land-owning interests of the Hudson's Bay Company on the Island in the eary days.

Hardly a year old when she first came to Victoria, her father being appointed by the Hudson's Bay Company to take charge of its farms on southern Vancouver Island in 1853, Miss McKenzie had lived practically all her life on the Island. Upon arrival here, the family took up its residence at Craigflower and the present homestead there and the old school by the bridge were built by Mr. McKenzie.

TO LAKE HILL

Enlarging his scope, Mr. McKenzie later established a sheep station at Lake Hill, where buildings were erected, including the old McKenzie homestead. The family later moved from Craigflower to Lake Hill, where Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie resided until their deaths.

A suburban district has developed around the old homestead, which was occupied by the daughters of the family for many years. The family names are perpetuated in the Saanich streets of "Kenneth" and "McKenzie."

Surviving Miss McKenzie are: One niece, Mrs. H. M. Craft of Oakland, Cal., and two nephews, Kenneth Watson of San Francisco, and Alexander B. Watson of Victoria.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

The remains are resting at the B.C. Funeral Chapel. The funeral service will take place at 1.45 p.m. Saturday, the cortege proceeding from the funeral chapel to St. John's Church, where a service will be conducted, interment being afterwards made in the family vault at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Royal Oak

The regular meeting of the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in their hall on Wilkinson Road. There was a good attendance, with the president, Mrs. Austin, presiding. The treasurer reported the finances in good condition, the recent home cooking stall having increased the funds by $11.25.

Another quilting bee will be held on November 22, commencing at 10 a.m. All members and their friends are invited to be present.

A letter was read from the Armistice Period Committee. Three representatives from the institute volunteered to tag on Poppy Day.

Up to the present the members have not gathered any history of the old-timers of the district, so two members were appointed to make a special effort to get photos and data before the next meeting.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute recommend that a portion of the legislation vote in aid of women's institutes be set aside to enable isolated institutes to obtain lecturers, demonstrators and speakers. A copy of this resolution is to be sent to Premier Tolmie and Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture.

After the business, Miss Madeline Pridmore gave a very interesting demonstration of bead work, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. George Jones.

A most enjoyable evening was spent on Tuesday in the Wilkinson Road United Church when Miss Seigel, the gifted elocutionist, gave one of her popular entertainments, assisted by Mrs. C. H. Williams, soloist, and the Wilkinson Road Male Quartette. Humor and pathos were cleverly intermingled and much appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Pringle, in moving a vote of thanks to Miss Seigel, expressed a hope that she would again visit the district when she comes to the Coast.

Keating

The Ladies' Aid of the South Saanich United Church will hold its November meeting on Thursday afternoon, November 8. The Aid is planning to hold a sale in the basement of David Spencer's Ltd. store on Saturday, November 17.

The Junior Institute of South Saanich will meet at the home of Miss Edith Bickford, Bevenuto Avenue, on Thursday evening. A full attendance of members is requested as further plans for the Christmas sale of work and entertainment will be discussed.

The South Saanich Women's Institute will hold its fortnightly card party in the Temperance Hall on Saturday evening, when Mrs. Warner will be the convener.

Three fast and interesting games of basketball were played in the Temperance Hall recently and provided plenty of excitement for the large crowd of fans in attendance, the home teams securing the honors in the men's games while the visiting ladies won their game.

The Redbirds and the Keating girls met in the first game, and close checking was experienced throughout. The score was, Redbirds 28, Keating 12. The line-ups—Redbirds, Torrie Rennie, Berta Peden, Ett Maynard, Biddy Boyce, Dorothy Holder and Dot. Lea. Keating—Nellie Styan, Hessie Griffiths, Alice Styan, Winnie Griffiths and Gladys Hanson.

The second game was between Centennial Intermediate "A" men and Keating Intermediate. Keating showed a splendid exhibition of passing, and had no difficulty in finding the basket, piling up a score of forty-two, while the visitors secured twenty-five points. The line-up: Centennials, R. Bird, Walker, W. Jones, J. Ross, R. Hatcher and W. Woods. Keating Intermediates—R. Kersey, G. Michell, F. Sutton, N. Tanner, L. Styan, W. Tanner.

In the final game the Sons of Canada took the floor with the Keating Seniors. Although the visitors were far heavier men then the local players and led the scoring during the first period, the Keating team forged ahead in the final period and finished with a score of twenty-eight points with twenty points for the visitors. The line-up—Sons of Canada: J. Taylor, Jack Taylor, Partington, Brynjolfson, Greenwood, Nickle, Dempster and Killick. Keating Seniors—M. Atkinson, R. Michell, C. Cunnigham, R. Bagley, W. Bate, S. Bate and R. Kersey.

Refreshments were served after the games and dancing concluded the evening's entertainment.

New Harmony in gayest Colors!

A new and extraordinary musical instrument clothed with a beauty as unusual as the music of the new Orthophonic Victrola itself

In performance, this instrument has no peer in its field. In design, it is new as tomorrow, yet it embodies design principles two hundred years old. Inspired by the recent Exposition des Arts Decoratifs in Paris,—color is its keynote, rich vibrant and harmonious color. Newspaper illustration fails utterly to convey its beauty—you must see it.

In Orthophonic tone quality Orthophonic Victrola 8-36 is approached only by the well-known "Credenza" model, which made the Orthophonic famous overnight! The Victor-controlled principle of "Matched Impedance" or "Smooth Flow of Sound" is of course, embodied in this new instrument. Go into any His Master's Voice dealers and compare it with your idea of the old style talking machine.

The new Orthophonic Victrola is made in a range of beautiful models, artistically designed in fine walnut or mahogany. Electrically driven, if you wish, at slight additional cost. All instruments are self stopping. Prices from $1400 down to as low as $115. On convenient payments at all His Master's Voice dealers.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore. (Advt.)

STOCK MARKET — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 8.—Wheat—Another featureless day was experienced in the wheat market with only a light local trade passing. Prices during the first period worked about half cent lower, based on the cables being weaker than due, but a little country buying of May appeared and as offerings were extremely light all day, prices gradually recovered until they were half cent over last night's close. There was also a little short covering by the sellers of yesterday. Prices are at such low levels that the trade feel that wheat can be bought on the dip for moderate profits.

Exporters and spreaders report a very slow demand for cash wheat, and this was confirmed by the seaboard, foreign demand for wheat over night being very quiet. However, there was a fair local demand from spreaders for the lower grades, more particularly the 4 and 5 and feed, and spreads on these grades were mostly half cent better, while others were unchanged. Offerings of cash wheat are firmly held at prices half to a quatres higher than bid quotations. Both Canadian and American mills were taking November wheat in a moderate way.

Numbers 2 and 3 northern are not wanted except through the clearing house, and the deliveries each day are said to be going into strong hands. Chicago was firmer to-day with prices mostly about one cent higher. This was helping Winnipeg, although there was very little business passing between the two markets. Would sell wheat on the upturns.

Coarse grains—There was fair domestic demand for cash oats and barley, which was reflected in the futures as the hedges were lifted. Rye was also stronger, largely in sympathy with the upturn in wheat, as consumptive demand was very small, and there was no export business confirmed in either oats, barley or rye. Offerings continue quite light.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Wheat—While the main news features to-day were anything but bullish on wheat, there was an absence of heavy pressure, and on the dips there was a good general demand which finally took the slack out of the market, a brisk rally from the early low points resulting. Argentine news was favorable, shipments from the country continue large and Australian reports also suggest a generous yield of wheat. The fact is, however, that all of the bear features have been advertised, and their effect registered in prices for a number of weeks.

The present level of prices has been maintained for a long time now, and it is significant that the open interest is increasing which suggests there is investment buying of importance at times. Europe is taking a lot of wheat but there is still a tremendous load to distribute the next few months. It is difficult to see much incentive for buying wheat aggressively, but it must be conceded that sellers make little headway. In our opinion the best policy at present is a trading attitude as the market shows no disposition to run to any extreme in either direction.

Corn was strong with excellent buying of both cash and futures, country offerings were light, cash sales were 125,000 bushels. Prices for spot corn were unchanged to quarter cent up relatively. American corn selling abroad 9 cents under the basis of Argentine corn and the European news is as bullish in a general way as ever. Native crops being short, while needs abroad are heavy.

Argentine is not flooding the foreign markets, as was the case a year ago. It is estimated over 50,000,000 bushels American corn has been booked for export, an amount which does not look exaggerated in view of the conditions abroad, the cheapness and quality of our corn and the smaller available elsewhere. We expect to see a bigger run of corn, but this does not necessarily spell lower prices, as we believe it will be wanted. On the set-backs of any importance would buy corn.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

New York, Nov. 8—"Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau says:

"The most gratifying feature of yesterday's market, gratifying because it means a continuance of the advance, was the manner in which post election profit taking was absorbed and the manner in which the market leaders were held within reasonable bounds and not permitted to develop violent markets which could have seriously impaired the technical position. Profit-taking was undoubtedly exceptionally heavy coming from those who believed that the market has been discounting a Republican victory and that consequently the good news being out, profits should be clinched. I do not believe that this is the case, but expect the market to continue to advance because the advance is based, not on politics, but on an exceptionally good present, and the assurance of an even better future both in business and finance.

"Credit accommodation now available at six per cent with the gold import movement promising to bring considerably more metal to the country than was originally estimated, which should mean that both time and call money will loan for the balance of the year at lower rates than were expected but a few weeks ago. Except where advances have been exceptionally radical I continue the recommendation to either hold or buy stocks not to sell them, anticipating that even better prices than their record prices which now face us will be recorded in the near future.

"Paramount Cab Mfg. on the New York curb is recommended for purchase while it is available in the middle and high thirties, for a number of reasons. First, because the company is in exceptional financial condition with current assets some twelve times liabilities, second, because the forthcoming earnings statements are currently running at a rate of slightly better than $6 a share on the stock, third, because the stock is soon to be established on a $2.40 dividend basis to return a yield of around seven per cent, and finally, because now that election is over there is an exceptionally favorable city ordinance to be put into effect.

"If you have followed the buying recommendations in Timken Roller Bearings and Woolworth, you have new high record in which to take profits in Timken and a new high for half or more in Woolworth. I believe you can likewise take half profits in Anaconda but would continue to buy American Smelting under 275 and Chile Copper under 65. Likewise recommend the purchase of Greene Cananea which is expected to develop into the sensational performer of the copper group.

"Superior Oil is established at 12 as predicted, will cross 12 to-day and inaugurate its next phase of advance which has its objective 15. Use some of the Woolworth profits to buy Associated Drygoods below 53. In the rails continue to concentrate on Canadian Pacific and New York Central, in the utilities on United Gas Improvement and International Tel. and Tel. in the steel group on three issues Vanadium, Colo. Fuel and Big Steel. Among the specialties Loew's, Fidelity Phoenix Insurance and Insurance Company of North America, Hiram Walker."

Wall Street To-day

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Leased Wire.)

HOOVER MARKET IS ROARING BULL FOR SECOND DAY

New York, Nov. 8.—What is already referred to as the Hoover bull market, although it is only two days old, to-day brought such a volume of trading that exchange facilities were swamped and nearly the whole session the tape was running more than one hour behind the market.

Montgomery Ward, which has been one of the most blue-blooded of the "blue chip" stocks for the last year, climbed more than 20 points to-day, breaking through its last high of 350½ and getting over the 370 level.

The list of new highs was long to-day, running chiefly in the copper and oil sections.

The Calumet and Arizona statement for the quarter ended September 30, showing a profit before depreciation and depletion of $1,385,321, compared with $923,301 in the same quarter of last year, resulted in the stock establishing a new high record price by breaking through its last high of 123½.

Others in the copper group to reach new high prices to-day include Inspiration, Miami, Magma, Nevada, American Smelters, Calumet and Hecla, Cerro de Pasco, Granby.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, on the news that earnings this year will approximate $5 a share and that the directors may declare an extra dividend, went to another new high price.

Shell Union also made a new high, advantageously affected by the announcement that stockholders will be offered new common stock in the ratio of three shares for each ten held at $10 a share.

Amerado, Associated Dry Goods, Timken were other issues to reach new highs.

New York, Nov. 9.—The financial group headed by Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain operator and the Fisher Brothers have bought a substantial interest in the open market in the Kolster Radio Corporation. It was learned yesterday.

New York, Nov. 8.—Hornblower and Weeks to-day say: "We Believe that continued strength can be expected during this week, which will carry prices considerably higher. We expect General Motors and U.S. Steel to share the leadership and furnish the foundation for the general advance. In the public utility group we particularly recommend the purchase of Public Service of New Jersey, American Power and Light and Columbia Gas."

New York, Nov. 8.—Warner Bros. for the fiscal year ending August 31, shows a net profit of $2,044,841, compared with a net profit of $40,426 last year.

New York, Nov. 8.—Increase in loans to a new high record is probable this week and many expect a gain of around $100,000,000.

New York, Nov. 8—The evening edition of The Wall Street Journal says: The early strength gave way to some irregularity later with the turnover in huge volume and the tape running at times almost an hour behind the market. The result was to increase confusion and to make it well nigh impossible at times to obtain clearcut idea as to the trend or as to the nature of trading.

It was entirely probable that a great many traders who had been following the long side and who had gone over the election day period long of stocks were taking profits on the theory that the volume of trading and the confusion indicated the necessity of increasing caution.

It was pointed out that several times during the past several months the market had reached a condition similar to that of to-day and yesterday without becoming overburdened and had been able to correct possible excesses without disturbing the main body of stocks.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and there was a good demand for funds at that figure. Banks called loans and the rate advanced in the afternoon to 6½ per cent.

There were rumors of renewed interest of Federal Reserve authorities in the question of brokers' loans but dispatches from Washington minimized these reports.

General Motors, on the eve of the directors' meeting moved irregularly and seemed to be in supply on all strong spots.

Vanadium was a special feature on prediction that 1929 earnings might reach $15 a share. The steel group was stronger than it has been.

Brokers' loans increased $71,804,000 for the week.

At a meeting held by General Motors directors to-day after the close of the market the stock was split 2½ for 1, paying $2.50 extra dividend on the old stock and placing the new stock on $3 basis.

H. WALKER STOCK MAY SPLIT 4-1; SMELTERS BOUGHT

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Talk of splitting Hiram Walker stock up four shares for one and the stock selling around 25 has stimulated great activity in the stock here and cause it to break through its top at 86½ to-day and sell at new high prices.

Coast Copper followed upward move of the copper stocks in New York and rose six points to 56 here to-day.

Constructive local leaders are thoroughly satisfied with the action of the market and are consistent in looking for the good stocks to do better, and for no more serious market development than the inevitable reactions that have been occurring from time to time in the last three years.

European buying of Consolidated Mining and Smelting continues, with the stock to-day selling at 295. The importance of Smelters in the field in which it has long been a leader has been increasing more rapidly than most people have realized. In fact, it would seem as though financial visitors from England and France this year have grasped the picture more clearly than have the average Canadian observers. Of course, everyone expects tremendous things of Smelters some day, but many former holders of the stock have long since been tired out with waiting for their expectations to materialize. Many speculative accounts have been liquidated in the past year or so by traders who wished to release substantial sums for the purpose of dealing in more active issues. In nearly all instances, long lines have been closed out with the hope of getting back in before the stock really starts to move.

All listed equipment stocks have moved into new high ground on the strength of the opening of orders in the equipment buying programme of the C.P.R. and C.N.R.

Oils and Rails Lead In Bond Market

New York, Nov. 8.—Prices improved in quiet early trading in the bond market to-day, with oil and railroad issues again leading the way. Time money was dull around the same levels. Banks called upwards of $10,000,000 in loans.

Andes Copper 7s moved up about four points, nearly touching the year's high, but Anaconda Copper 6s, and 7s yielded to selling pressure. Camaguay Sugar 7s, also sold off, although most of other industrials made small gains. Barnsdall 6s, with warrants, again led the oil group, rising two points to a new high at 145. There was little early demand for utilities and public Service of New Jersey 4½s, yielded fractionally.

St. Louis and Southwestern first 4½s, with a gain of 1¼ points, were among the strong railroad liens. St. Paul 5s, of 2,000, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, New Haven 4½s and Northern Pacific 4s also improved.

Italian Public Utility 7s attracted most buying in the foreign list. Rio Grande do Sul 6s showed a further drop.

Public offering was made to-day of $2,365,000 Province of New Brunswick, Canada, 4½ gold bonds, and $1,131,000 Lawyers' Mortgage Company 5½s per cent guaranteed mortgage certificates.

NORANDA STOCK TIGHTENING UP

Toronto, Nov. 8—Large blocks of Noranda have been taken off the market in the last month and a half. Recently the stock has had several false moves between $50 and $60. These moves are believed to be preparatory to an advance of sustained proportions, the foundation of which is being built on the present large short interest that has been accumulated in this stock around its present price. On very few sales yesterday Noranda's action plainly indicated that the available supply of stock for trading purposes was dangerously slim.

Snowflake "Deal" Is Not Binding, Williams Admits

Vancouver, Nov. 8—Shareholders of the Snowflake group of mines, expressed their confidence in the men who manage the development of their property, when they re-elected en bloc their directors at the annual meeting here last night.

While there was criticism offered by shareholders of announcements made by J. B. Williams, president of the company, in connection with the uncovering of ore bodies in the mine some weeks ago, Mr. Williams pointed out that he had given these to newspapers in good faith, relying upon the report of the resident engineer at the mine, who, he said, had since been discharged.

Mr. Williams told the meeting that there was financial backing for projected development work assured the company. He was asked for explicit information. The president stated that there was a powerful concern in New York, represented by a Mr. Keene, who had visited the mine, which had an option of 600,000 shares of treasury stock, good until the end of June. This stock would net 75 cents a share, he said. He admitted that the proposition was not binding, but intimated that there was a gentlemen's agreement which could be calculated to carry weight.

"We are confident," Mr. Williams said, "that your money is being expended on development work in the best interests of the stockholders. Capital is assured to us. We will go ahead as rapidly as possible."

At one juncture a questioner arose in the audience.

"Have you at any time disposed of any of your stock above the par value?" he was asked.

"I have not," said Mr. Williams. "I have never sold a share of it. Neither have any of the directors that I am aware of," he added.

SHERRITT-GORDON MAY REFINANCE TO BUILD SMELTER

Toronto, Nov. 8—Now that it is practically assured that a railway is to be pushed into Sherritt-Gordon from the present railhead of The Pas Railroad, it is expected that operations at Sherritt-Gordon will take on a more concrete form as soon as the railway is completed.

It is quite conceivable that Sherritt-Gordon will have to refinance during the coming year. In order to mine and smelt Sherritt's medium grade ore large scale mining operations will be necessary. The cost of equipping such an enterprise will be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. At the present time there are over 1,300,000 shares of stock in the treasury. This stock will have to be sold somewhere between $6 and $7 a share to net the money required to bring the property in production.

Vancouver, Nov. 8.—Snowflake and Kootenay Florence featured the opening of the morning session. Snowflake opened at 45, sagged back to 40 and rallied to 44. The activity in Snowflake is undoubtedly due to the reports contained in a special bulletin issued yesterday afternoon by the Provincial Government.

Kootenay Florence opened at 19 and gained an additional half point to 19½ on a fair turnover. Trading in Snowflake was heavy.

Fabyan was weak, opening at 15½, but strengthened to 16.

Noble Five continued firm at 40½ with one sale at 41. This issue has been in strong demand recently, and indications are that higher prices will prevail.

Pend Oreille opened strong at $11. Kootenay King continued steady at 35 and Mohawk at 6½. The market was active, and the general undertone is firm, and with the exception of Snowflake stock in the majority of issues is being tightly held, indicating higher prices in the near future.

Fabyan opened stronger at 15 and climbed to 16.

Marmot River Gold was steady around 9 and 9¼.

Grandview continued steady at 57½ and Marmot Metals was strong at 7½.

Noble Five continued firm at 40.

Vancouver, Nov. 8.—According to an announcement of Col. H. H. Yuill, president and general manager of the Lucky Jim Lead and Zinc Co. Ltd., October was the record production month for the mine. The tonnage of ore crushed was 5,250 tons, which resulted in the shipment to the smelter of 790 tons of concentrates. The value of the concentrates per ton has been greatly increased, through the production of a much higher grade product.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

(Over R. F. Castle Leased Wire)

Toronto, Nov. 8—Solloway Mills & Co. to-day says: One million, two hundred and sixty three thousand shares were delivered over the counter on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day.

A generous part of this volume was contributed by Bathurst Mines. Great gobs of this stock changed hands during the day between 37 and 40 cents at 39½ to 40 Bathurst closed at the top.

Noranda sold up to 55.15 but reacted to close at 54.30-45, up five points for the day. Noranda has every appearance of being well groomed for a substantial rise.

Stadacona at 9½ was off one point. Incidentally, Stadacona's new shaft which is to be sunk to a depth of 300 feet is now around the forty-foot horizon. It is expected that more rapid progress will be made as soon as the new plant is installed.

Capital Rouyn slumped rather badly and sold as low as 15, rallying closed off three points.

Grandview was traded in for the first time, 1,000 shares being sold at 57.

Kootenay Florence was quite active and sold as high as 24 on the report that conditions at the mine are a little more promising.

Sherritt-Gordons at 6.75-80 was down twenty points, while Sudbury Basin was off 10.

A good deal of interest is displayed in the new nickel copper stock Falconbridge, which sold up to 5.30, closing at 5.20-25.

Amulet at 2.90 was unchanged, while Abana touched 3.60, down 10.

New and old Nickel and the three oils, International Petroleum, British American and Imperial were all down one to three points, on a strong inclination by public to take profits, following weakness that developed in some sections of the industrial list yesterday.

Buying power was lacking and the stocks were marked down in many instances before support appeared.

EXPLAINS EARNINGS OF OIL COMPANIES

Lack of Curb and Destructive Competition Cited By "Lamp"

New York, Nov. 8.—Lack of control and destructive competition in the petroleum industry explains earning reports of oil companies, which, in turn, make clear the movement of oil securities as contrasted with motor shares, according to The Lamp, publication of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Commenting on the movements of motor shares, following increased sales and profits of that industry, the publication contrasts the increased consumption of petroleum as follows:

"Ten years ago the United States consumed and exported 92,000,000 barrels of gasoline. Five years ago it required 199,000,000 barrels. A compilation of results achieved by the principal companies (representing 44 per cent of the total production) in the five years from 1923 to 1927, inclusive, shows average earnings per barrel of gross production of 61 cents, or about 40 per cent of the average posted price for crude oil during the same period.

"This represents the total profit from production, transportation by pipe line or tanker, and the employment of costly processes of manufacture and agencies of distribution. In addition it includes considerable earnings from other sources such as natural gas, casinghead gasoline, patent royalties, investments, etc. It is therefore an outside figure which would be lower if limited strictly to earnings from the barrels of crude oil."

The publication then cites why petroleum earnings have not been commensurate with the volume of business:

"Petroleum is not a controlled industry. There is in it no single or group interest which, by virtue of its size, is dominant. Competition has run wild, and often destructively. It has brought in new producing fields before they were needed and forced the sale of surplus crude at ruinous prices.

"Competition has built too many refineries and pipe lines. The surplus of products led to overbuilding in retail outlets. All along the line the overproduction has been costly.

"The public has apparently benefitted through low prices paid for petroleum products. Actually, of course, it could have had the same prices and the industry could have made a satisfactory amount of money had there been some way to co-ordinate production and markets. Whether the public has benefitted permanently is open to question, but there is no doubt about what the industry has lost.

"Increased earnings by the industry do not necessarily spell materially higher prices to the consumer. They can be achieved through the reduction of costs that have been unduly high because of the way business has been conducted. Substantial savings can be made in the production of crude oil. Economies will result when the storage of crude and finished products can be reduced. Refinery operations also offer opportunities for lower costs and, of course, it is patent to all that the country has been oversupplied with retail outlets.

"Elimination of much of our wasteful competition through the co-ordination of production activities to market requirements should mean larger earnings per barrel without any great change in prices."

NEW HIGH COMMISSIONER

London, Nov. 8—Sir John Bennett, former member of the Newfoundland Government and a native of St. Johns, Nfld., has arrived in London to take up his duties as Newfoundland High Commissioner. He succeeds Captain Victor Gordon, V.C., who died recently from the effects of war wounds.

History Is Repeating Itself In New York Stock Market

New York Nov. 8.—If you ask any Wall Street veteran what he thinks of the present stock market he will tell you he is completely bewildered, that the market alone is its own index and that no one knows how far it is going or how soon a reaction may come, although most forward-looking men in the Street of experience believe that there are no signs of a major swing back; that is, a sustained bear market.

It is not true this market is unprecedented or that history is not repeating itself. The trouble is that oldest Wall Street veterans don't go further than their own memory and that probably covers from forty to sixty years. But students of history and the academics go back as far as the Napoleonic Wars to find a precedent and here is the analogy between this market and the great expansion that occurred at that time.

War preparations produced a stimulus to national energy which has found expression in the great efficiency of the present day, which, in turn, is reflected in the so-called unprecedented stock market of the present time. But there are other contributory causes that are peculiar to the situation itself.

Looking back a few years, one is startled by the important changes that have taken place in America in regard to the stock market. Market reviewers as a class have not given some of these events their full weight in considering the situation. Take destruction of the bucketshops, for instance. These fraudulent institutions formerly received at least one-fourth of the public's stock market orders. These were never executed. They became simply bookkeeping entries and had no influence on the market.

Not only was the public robbed through false quotations, but it was robbed of the market influence these orders would have had on the market if they had been executed. The public was innocent, for it did not know these orders were being bucketed, as the bucketshops maintained all the outward appearances of brokerage houses. Now orders given by the public are executed on the exchange, and that alone has a tremendous influence on the constructive side of the market.

Another important factor is that the war loans created some 20,000,000 new investors—that is, it taught 20,000,000 persons who had never bought securities to do so. Then, by retiring these bonds, it left them with a great buying appetite and they naturally went into the stock market, where they never would have gone but for this experience with Liberty bonds. As they have been fortunate in stock market ventures, their confidence has grown until their optimism marketwise knows no bounds.

That this optimism is justified one may understand from the fact that the steel trade is progressing at record volume, that the automobile trade has expanded to unexpected proportions and that crops in the West and Northwest are record breakers, while at the same time the country's foreign trade has continued to grow. Also there has been a remarkable increase in the industrial efficiency of the American people.

One of the most interesting and instructive studies of the various influences that have brought about the market as it exists to-day has been prepared by Thomas C. Shotwell, Wall Street analyst:

"If we look back into history the whole mystery of the present rise in stocks disappears. Exactly the same thing happened in France and England after the Napoleonic wars. Everyone prospered, for Napoleon had brought to France all the physical wealth of Europe, and England had lost little and had taken over to itself markets previously belonging to other nations. The wars over, all the attention of France and England was turned to industry, and they prospered amazingly. Security prices rose to astonishing heights and commodity prices declined. Bankers warned the public, but the public ignored these warnings, and the public was right for many years.

"The French 5 per cent rentes that sold at 45 francs just before the Battle of Waterloo began to advance immediately after and continued strong until 1844, when they reached the high price of 106 francs 30 centimes. Circumstances attending the establishment of the Second Empire broke them to 50 francs, but they quickly recovered to 106 francs 50 centimes, until 1870, when France once more became the scene of wild historical events.

"In England the course of prices is perhaps best illustrated by the West India Dock Company stock, which sold at 149.2 in 1815 and rose steadily after the war to a level of 213 in 1928. The income yield of securities became so small in England and France that investment trusts were organized in order that capital might go abroad in large units in search of better profits. That was the origin of the investment trusts.

"An analogous situation exists in America. America came out of the World War enriched in every factor that goes to make a nation strong. We had the gold of the world. We lost practically no man power. We were the only nation using automobiles to any extent. The health of the people was improved by wartime attention to exercise and food. Wartime scrutiny had revealed features of strength and wealth that the public had never known about. There was a general feeling of supremacy and exaltation.

"We paid high wages, and in spite of these high wages our exports continued to increase. Why? Because we were competing with a world that was broken in spirit and resources; with a world that was floundering from one economic experiment to another in the hope of making a quick recovery. Socialism in some countries, despotism in others, the dole system in England and revolution in Ireland kept Europe out of its natural markets which it practically surrendered to the United States.

"The market is following natural laws of economics and there is no reason why both prosperity and the market should not continue for years at this high level or even higher. The World War was many times greater than all the Napoleonic wars combined, and the destruction to other nations was vastly greater. It would seem, therefore, that the extent of prosperity in America and the period of its endurance should be that much greater."

MOND INTERESTS IN B.C. FIELD

Purchase of the Telkwa collieries, east of Smithers, marks the entry of the Mond interests headed by Lord Melchett into the British Columbia coal industry, according to reports current at the Parliament Buildings.

The Telkwa collieries, which for years have been operated to supply fuel to Prince Rupert and other cities on the C.N.R. line will be used by the Mond interests for the production of valuable by-products, including oil, it is reported.

The property is said to have been sold to the British syndicate for $75,000, and purchased solely for the manufacture of by-products of coal.

A Story of the Mystic East

The Riddle of Siwa

By DIXON KAYE

Author of "Dr. Burney's Greatest Case."

"When the court rose I was taken to another prison, where the executions take place, and then the excitement began. I had to strip and get into a bath ,and during this performance my white wig came off. This was only the beginning; my identification marks were all wrong; and the color of my eyes did not correspond with their description. There was a good deal of excitement, and then the chief warder, who was quite confounded, sent for the Deputy-Governor. The Deputy Governor arrived, but he also was absolutely amazed, and sent for the Governor of the prison himself. He also could find no solution of the matter, but ordered me into prison clothing and the condemned cell.

"The condemned cell is by no means a cheerful place, with the associations connected with the poor creatures who have inhabited it before going out of this world; but I was allowed to have whatever food I liked, and some wine. The warder who sat with me over this, my first meal in the prison—I was never left alone—entertained me by relating the particulars of various celebrated murderers who had gone out to their death from that very cell. He concluded by whispering behind his hand—by way of dessert—that he had heard that my case had been sent up to the Home Office straight away.

"I endured the condemned cell for three days and then a most extraordinary sequence of events occurred. I was sent for to go to the Governor's room. His countenance was anything but grave when I entered; he looked as if he had been laughing heartily, but he straightened himself up when I came in.

"'I have sent for you,' he began, 'in consequence of an order I have received from the Home Office. The Home Secretary has considered all the facts of your case and has thought fit to recommend His Majesty to grant you a free pardon.' After being condemned to death, I was granted a free pardon! A free pardon for an offence I had never committed! I, however, thanked the Governor. 'To-morrow,' he continued, 'you will be taken to a prison in the country and there liberated after a few days, provided,' he added, 'that you subscribe to the following conditions: You will, on your release, immediately leave England, and you will not return to this country for a period of five years. Are you prepared to subscribe to that?' he asked. Having just come from the condemned cell, I was prepared to sign anything. I did not like the condition to keep away from England for five years, as I knew it meant the ruin of my practice in Mount Street, which I had got together with so much hard work."

The Prince interrupted.

"You need not give yourself any anxiety on that point, Hassan," he said. "I intend to make you a rich man and far beyond the necessity of following your profession. You have risked your own life to save mine."

Hassan bowed low to him.

"I have only done," he said, "what I would do again for you."

Then Hassan proceeded with his relation of his adventures in the prison.

"Having signed the paper in which the terms of my release were embodied, the Governor witnessed my signature. We were quite alone together in his room, a most unusual thing to occur between the Governor and a convict, for convict I was. Once the paper was signed, he looked upon the affair as settled. 'You quite understand that if you come back to England during the five years you will be prosecuted?' he asked. 'Yes,' I answered. 'I quite understand that.' 'Have you got any money?' was the next question. 'Yes,' I answered, thinking of your Highness's gift to me. 'Sufficient to take you to Egypt?' he asked. 'Yes, was my answer. 'I can get to Egypt.' 'Then you will not require a free ticket or any other assistance from the government; it is far better for you that you should travel at your own expense, but you will be accompanied in any case by a plainclothes officer to Egypt.' 'Thank you,' I said. 'I think I can manage very well."

"That being concluded, he covered his face with his hands, and laughed long and heartily. 'You are a man of refinement and high accomplishments, Dr. Hassan,' he said presently, 'and you will appreciate what I am going to say, and keep my confidence?' I promised that I would. 'I am not going to ask you any questions about what occurred,' he continued, 'for we have a pretty shrewd notion of how it was managed; but I will tell you that if this story got abroad, the Government would be the laughing stock of the nation, and it is only a few weeks from the General Election, luckily for you. In addition, if it got known, we should have every criminal who had got money—and many have—trying the same trick. No, Dr. Hassan, you are in luck, and those concerned with you. You are all perfectly safe if you keep quiet. It is all going to be hushed up.' He rose and extended his hand. 'Good-bye, Hassan,' he said, 'and, remember, we do not want to see any more of you for five years. In the meantime, additional good luck to you.' He called in the escort and I was marched away again to the Condemned Cell, but only for one night.

"The next day I was given my own clothes again and placed in a closed motor-car with the windows frosted over. I had not the least notion where I was going. Two warders were with me, and they were inclined to be affable and conversational. We drove in through a pair of gates, and I heard them close behind us. Evidently I was in another prison, but which? From the length of the journey I imagined it was a long way from London. I only remained two days at this prison; on the morning after my arrival I saw the Governor; he was a very business-like gentleman, and I do not think he knew anything about my case.

"In his presence all my property was restored to me, including my chequebook which I was very pleased to see, for I was helpless without it. They returned me my money, so I was not without means. I signed a receipt for everything. 'You are for discharge to-morrow morning,' said the Governor. 'You had better go by the eight-thirty train.' Good morning. Please write your address on the receipt.' I did this, and he shook hands, which seemed to be the usual custom, and I was marched back to my cell, where I sat making plans for the morrow.

"First, I should go back to my house in Mount Street, where my servants would think nothing of my sudden return; they were used to my comings and goings. Then I would get a supply of money and take a berth on the first liner for Alexandria; my intention was to find your Highness and explain what had taken place. I duly left the prison the next morning, and fulfilled my plan of going straight home to Mount Street, where I thought I might have a few days' rest before starting for Egypt. But the Home Office did not leave me alone very long. On the second evening a smart gentlemanly young man called upon me, and informed me that he was from Scotland Yard, and had been detailed to accompany me to any part of Europe I chose, and to see me land there.

"I told him I had already booked a berth in the liner leaving that day week for Alexandria. He said the port would be all right, but could not I leave on Friday, three days earlier; he seemed very anxious to see me out of the country. I agreed to go on Friday, if I could arrange to change my ticket for that day. It was a good thing I did go by the Friday's boat or I should not have met your Highness. Having duly arranged my exchange of tickets, I embarked on the Friday's boat with the agreeable young young man from Scotland Yard who was a pleasant companion all the voyage, and not at all like a policeman. Your Highness and Mr. Barham know the rest; by a fortunate chance, I have met you both at the very moment of my landing."

"Do you know where I was going, Hassan, when I met you?" the Prince asked.

"No," was the answer.

"I was going to give myself up, confess the trick I had played, and take your place on the gallows."

"But surely, your Highness," Hassan asked, "saw that my sentence had been commuted to penal servitude for life? The Governor of the Prison told me it had appeared in the papers to deceive the public."

"No," answered the Prince. "I saw no such announcement, and for a good reason. I have been out of the track of newspapers for some time. But it would have made no difference. If I had heard that you were to suffer penal servitude for life I should have gone over, given myself up and released you all the same. But now for your reward. Sheik Ibrahim our Treasurer, shall have orders to pay out of our common Treasure House at the Black Lake two thousand ingots of gold, which shall be placed to your credit at the Bank of Egypt. You can do as you like with it. We shall not miss it out of our vast inexhaustible store."

CHAPTER XXXVI

It was a very delightful dinner party that night at the Savoy at "Alex."

The Prince could hardly believe that it was a reality; all through the meal he was shaking Hassan's hand, and even wringing Seymour's. As the champagne circled he became more and more joyous.

"To-morrow," he said, "I rejoin my wife and children, and then—no more partings, please God, until the great parting comes."

Hassan was of a more placid disposition; he contemplated things with greater calmness. Thinking of his great accession of wealth, he was dreaming amid the cigarette smoke of a great medical research scheme which would occupy his brains without financial worry for five years, until he could go back to England. He did not now intend to sell his practice, but to keep on his house and servants in Mount Street until he could return.

By an early train the next morning they all went to Cairo, Hassan being taken charge of by his brother, while Seymour went in a straight line for the Citadel and—Eva.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tinymites slept sound and long. They didn't hear the breakfast gong abroad the ship, so they were late when things were set to serve. This made the captain rather mad. He shouldn't let them eat," he thought, "that's just what they deserve."

But then he quickly changed his mind and promptly started off to find if he could wake the sleepy bunch. He rapped upon their door. When just a few words he had said, the Tinymites jumped out of bed. "Ahoy there! Hurry up, you lads," they heard him loudly roar.

Then Clowny, whispered, "My, such fate. We've overslept, and we are late. But it's the captain's fault because he made us shovel coal. Let's all get dressed and hurry out." Once more they heard the captain shout, "Make haste, you lads and I will give you sweet milk and a roll."

Soon at the table they all sat and Carpy said, "I just wish that you'd let us have some coffee. We'll enjoy it very much." The captain walked up to his side and gave him milk. Then he replied, "It isn't good for little boys. No coffee should you touch."

In just a little while the bunch went out on deck. "I have a hunch," exclaimed the burly captain, "that you know what these are for." He pointed to some bars of soap, and brushes, too. Then said, "I hope you Tinymites know how to scrub. Get busy on the floor."

They all flopped down and worked away. At first it seemed like so much play. Then Clowny grew quite weary, and exclaimed, "I'll be a wreck." The captain laughed, "Ha, ha, ho, ho! Don't give up now, but simply go ahead and keep on scrubbing till you've finished all the deck."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf's Eyes

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

"You are up early this morning," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily as the rabbit gentleman came sliding down the stair railing of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Yes," agreed Mr. Longears. "I am up extra early, as I have much to do. Is breakfast ready?"

"It will be ready in just a minute," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But why the rush?"

"I must hurry over to the Bungleump and get Dazie Wogglejig to take her to the Hollow Stump School, where she is going to dance," said Mr. Longears. "Dazie is a cute little dancer and yesterday, when she was with her sister Mazie, I saw her dance. So did the Lady Mouse Teacher, and at once she invited Dazie to dance in school to amuse the pupils. So I'm going, now, to get Dazie."

"Oh, how wonderful!" said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I wish I were going to school again. Children nowadays seem to have many more good times in school than I ever did when I was a little rat. But there! Your breakfast is ready. Eat it and then go get Dazie."

So Uncle Wiggily began to nibble the hot carrot pancakes which Nurse Jane set before him and soon he was hopping across the fields to the Bungleump where Dazie lived with the other Wogglejigs and Boppy and Uum, the cuite little man and woman who looked after the queer wooden children who were always getting mixed up as to their legs, heads and bodies.

"Oh, hello, Unkie Wig!" called Dazie as soon as she saw the rabbit gentleman in front of the Bungleump, which was partly a bungalow and partly a stump. "I'm so glad you came!" said Dazie.

"Are you ready?" ased the rakbbit gentleman.

"Almost," answered Dazie. "I've got one of Mazie's legs by mistake, but as soon as I change it for one of my own I'll be with you."

Pretty soon Dazie came skipping out of the Bunleump. She found her brother Wumple had her tail, so she had to get it from him. For you must know that the Wogglejigs were made of wooden pieces, with a wooden ball for a heard and wooden pegs for legs, tails and necks. They came apart and went together again and in this way legs, heads, necks, tails and bodies were always getting mixed.

"Oh, I'm so glad you came early, before any of the children," said Miss Mouse when Uncle Wiggily and Dazie reached the school. "Do you want to practice a bit, my dear, before dancing before the pupils? They will soon be here and you shall dance in the morning exercises."

"Yes, I might practice a bit," said Dazie, so she danced around the teacher's platform after Uncle Wiggily had moved back the desk and chair. Dazie made sure that she had her own head, neck, legs and tail and then sat down to wait for the animal children to come.

Soon the Hollow Stump School was filled and Miss Mouse, after holding up her paw for silence, squeaked out:

"You are to have some amusement, my dears, this morning, before we say our lessons. Little Dazie Wogglejig is to do a funny dance for us. I will play the piano and Uncle Wiggily will whistle."

"Hurray!" barked Jackie Bow Wow, he was so excited.

"You must not bark without raising your paw," said Miss Mouse, but she forgave Jackie most politely and then began to play some music. Uncle Wiggily puckered up his pink nose and began to whistle and Dazie, stepping to the middle of the platform, began to dance.

Up and down danced the little Wogglejig girl, her wooden pins of legs making a tattoo, like drumming, on the floor of the platform. To and fro, this way and that, danced Dazie.

First the Lady Mouse played slow music and Uncle Wiggily whistled the same way. And then the music went faster. Dazie danced faster, too, skipping about and jiggling her legs, head and tail in such funny ways that the animal children laughed and so did Miss Mouse.

But all of a sudden while Uncle Wiggily was whistling, he looked toward a window and, peering in, he saw some big eyes. They were the eyes of that Bad Chap, Mr. Wolf.

"Oh, dear me!" thought the bunny rabbit gentleman. "The Wolf has come to see, with his own eyes, how Dazie dances. Maybe that Wolf will come in here and try to nibble me. What shall I do? I don't want to spoil Dazie's dancing, but I don't want to be nibbled by a Wolf."

Well, don't worry, my dears. The Wolf didn't get Uncle Wiggily. But as this story is ended, I shall have to tell you in the next what happened. If the rubber plant doesn't try to catch the goldfish in the mosquito net, you shall hear about Uncle Wiggily and the Cold Clapper.

ITCHY ECZEMA ON BABY'S FACE

Broke Out in Watery Pimples. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out in watery pimples on my baby's face. It itched and burned so badly that she scratched, and her face was covered with sore eruptions. When she scratched the eruptions they used to bleed something dreadful. She used to fret and stay awake nights. It caused disfigurement for a while.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it I purchased two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and in five weeks she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Clifford Fancy, Westfield, N. S.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

To-morrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1928

Good and evil planets divide this day's planetary rule, according to astrology, which finds the sway fortunate in the afternoon and evening.

The morning may be a time when it is difficult to make decisions and the tendency may be pessimistic.

The judement should not be trusted before noon, for it is easy to be deceived while this configuration prevails.

Much misrepresentation and even actual untruthfulness may be encountered while this configuration prevails. It is well not to buy until a better planetary government is assured.

The afternoon should be an auspicious time to consider building contracts and to consult with capitalists regarding their plans.

The sway should be favorable to enterprises that must be promoted as well as to those well started.

This should be a fairly fortunate sway for farmers, giving them encouragement and promising increased profits.

In eastern cities much fuel will be needed, for cold weather will prevail until late in the Spring.

Weddings will be numerous as the Winter advances and so will be engagements, for women will turn to romance with real initiative that makes them positive factors, the seers foretell.

Children born on this day may be intense in nature and inclined to be domineering. These subjects of Scorpio are exceptionally gifted and they are generally endowed with great determination.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a successful year which should be happy if small domestic quarrels are avoided.

HOW HOLLYWOOD IS BREAKING ITS SILENCE—NO. 6

TALKIES ARE A "GOLD RUSH"

* * * * * * * * *

EXHIBITORS, LIKE ACTORS, REALIZE SOUND FILMS PAY NOW, BUT DIFFER ON FUTURE PLACE IN INDUSTRY

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 8.—What does the theatre owner, the exhibitor, think about talking pictures?

To the casual observer his opinion may not carry much weight. He is but the middleman of the celluloid industry—taking the pictures sent from the film factories and exhibiting them.

But as the middleman, the theatre owner is a powerful influence. He buys the films. He is the man the cinema executives strive to please. If exhibitors want certain types of productions, they will get them.

VETERAN'S OPINION

"Right now the talking motion picture is a needed novelty," declares Sid Grauman, who has been in the show business since the days when you could see a movie for a nickel and is now considered one of the smartest showmen in theatrical circles. "During the last two years the public has become cinematically educated. It has come to know every basic plot around which movies are built, to know that the hero will always get the best of the villain in the end.

"For that reason we needed a new attraction to draw people into theatres. Dialogue and sound are serving that purpose. Talking pictures may become more than a novelty—they may be a permanent fixture. That all depends upon Mr. and Mrs. Public. If they want talking, there will be a lot of it. If they don't, there won't.

"Personally, I believe that full length talking films will either drive the public into the legitimate theatre or make them stay at home. With talkies in every theatre, they will grow tired of them. However, I have had to climb on the band wagon. I have installed sound reproducing apparatus because the public is demanding sound with its heretofore silent drama."

Sid Grauman . . . . thinks the talkies are a needed novelty

Harold B. Franklin, head of the West Coast chain of theatres, which includes both large and small houses, hasn't yet formed any definite opinion about the speakies. He is going to wait and see how the public reacts.

"Talking pictures are to-day the gold rush of the motion picture business," he says. "Nobody knows what their future will be. There are a number of types of talking and sound pictures coming from the studios. Which of these types will live may not be decided for a year or two years yet. It may be the 100 per cent talking film, the part dialogue and part silent, or, talking may survive only in short subjects. I believe that sound syncronized with pictures has come to stay. But I do not know."

"HERE TO STAY"

"Talking and sound motion pictures are here to stay. One year hence the public will be so accustomed to hearing as well as seeing their screen amusement that silent films will be a drug on the market." Such is the opinion of Fred A. Miller, managing director of one of the leading show houses of Los Angeles.

"Motion pictures have always built their popularity with the masses by means of effective realism. Whereas the stage could offer its audience only painted scenery, the motion picture smashed the barriers of the stage's four walls and carried its audiences to any point in the world, out of doors and indoors.

"The screen carried its presentation of realism even further than this, securing identical types from all parts of the world for its characters. If realism has given the films their popularity with the fans, it is only reasonable to conclude that heightened realism will bring even greater popularity. That is exactly what sound does for a film. And that is why the silent drama will soon be on the toboggan—and gaining speed at every turn."

GORDON M'LEOD TO PLAY HERE

Gordon McLeod, who will be remembered here as the leading man with Sir John Martin Harvey, is playing in Canada at the head of his own company and will be in Victoria on November 19 in "Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner," a costume drama which has enjoyed considerable popularity on the British stage.

J. H. Cowan of Toronto, advance representative of his London company now in the city, says it is not generally known that Gordon McLeod lived in Victoria with his mother as a youth and has fond recollections of his boyhood associations here.

With Sir Martin Harvey, when he was last here, Gordon McLeod played the Marquis in "Scaramouche," and took the role of the youthful German captain in the "Burgomaster of Stilemonde." When Sir Martin Harvey was stricken with illness and forced to undergo an operation in Toronto, Mr. McLeod took the leading role in all the principal cities played during the tour, with the exception of Montreal, Vancouver and Victoria.

FORMED HIS OWN COMPANY

His sterling acting on that tour "made him," and he was urged by Canadian backers to form his own company in London and start on a Canadian tour.

The company which Mr. McLeod is bringing has never been to Canada before, but the members of it have had wide experience behind the footlights in London. Mr. Cowan states that the McLeod company, which plays at the Royal Victoria Theatre, is being closely followed by the Stratford-on-Avon Players in Shakespearean drama. Alderman Flower, celebrated mayor of Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace, is one of the advance agents of the company.

WARNER BAXTER IS CAST AS AN INDIAN IN COLUMBIA FILM

When Warner Baxter's name was mentioned to Edwin Carewe as a possible actor to portray the Indian, "Alessandro," in "Ramona," the producer threw up his hands and gave it no more thought.

Which proves that sometimes even a good producer and director like Edwin Carewe may make a mistake or may act hastily.

"Ramona" is Dolores Del Rio's starring production now at the Columbia Theatre.

Two days later, an Indian—tall, handsome, with smiling face and pearl white teeth, entered the private office of Carewe.

The producer was amazed when Warner Baxter extended a red hand, asking how he looked for the "test."

SPLENDID CAST IN FILM NOW AT THE PLAYHOUSE

"The Small Bachelor," the Universal Jewel production, now attracting record breaking crowds to the Playhouse Theatre, goes on record as the screamingest force comedy of the year, according to hundreds who have already seen the picture. Andre Beranger and Barbara Kent are featured in "The Small Bachelor," under the direction of William A. Seiter and are ably assisted by a superlative supporting cast.

STELLAR CAST IN "THE WHIP" AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE

With every player chosen with exceptional care, and at least five names of almost stellar prominence, the cast of First National's "The Whip," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is one of the most important of the season.

Dorothy Mackaill, a featured First National player, who has done a score of successful pictures during the last two years, plays the leading role.

Opposite here is Ralph Forbes, whose film career has been compartively brief but has included outstanding roles in such productions as "Beau Gest" and "The Trail of '98."

The stage attractions at the Capitol for this week include: Sheehan and Richardson, concert duetists; Senor Eduardo with his Marimnophenem, and Lucille Enderdly, the female baritone in song selections, along with Harold Bechtel the singing M.C., and the Capitol stage band under the baton of Al Prescott.

LOVELY OLD GOWNS WORN BY STAR AT DOMINION THEATRE

The rise to fame of Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, co-stars of Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Two Lovers" at the Dominion Theatre this week, is widely known. Universally acknowledged as "the screen's greatest lovers," they have become more or less permanently associated through their successes in "Dark Angel," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," and "The Magic Flame."

Consequently, Mr. Goldwyn's announcement on the completion of "Two Lovers" that his famous team would be separated, and that both Mr. Colman and Miss Banky would be starred individually, evoked a wide interest from film fans all over the world. Who would Mr. Goldwyn select as successor to Ronald Colman as Vilma's leading man? And who would be Miss Banky's heir beside Ronald Colman? Thousands of protests were received at the Goldwyn office, advising against a new pairing of the popular players. But Mr. Goldwyn went ahead with his plans.

FINE DOUBLE BILL AT THE COLISEUM ALL THIS WEEK

With a splendid double bill of stage and screen attractions, the management of the Coliseum Theatre is pleasing large and enthusiastic audiences every evening this week. Manager McEwan has secured for the screen attraction an adaptation from "Uncle Tom's Cabin," called "Topsy and Eva," and Lee Jaxon is presenting his capable and popular company of players in a comedy farce entitled "His Day Off."

"Topsy and Eva" has to do with a number of characters made famous in Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous story of life on the plantations in the southern United States before the Civil War. Simon Legree, the cruel slave dealer, Uncle Tom, little Eva St. Claire, and the black-faced and precocious Topsy, all have parts in this week's screen attraction. It is a picture that particularly the children should see and a matinee on Saturday afternoon is being arranged for them.

With "His Day Off," the Lee Jaxon players are living up to their reputation of providing good, clean comedy for Victoria theatregoers. All the Coliseum stage favorites are well cast this week and those taking parts are Miss Dorothy Raymond, Miss Billie Reams, Miss Ada Daniels, Lee Jaxon, Jack Holt, Howard Van Alstyne, and Tracey McDermott. They will appear every evening for the balance of the week with a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

"ROSE MARIE" IS CANADIAN STORY

Famous Musical Play Coming Here Next Week Has Scenes Laid in Saskatchewan

Theatregoers know what an Arthur Hammerstein production means, for he has the reputation of making stage productions of the highest merit, and he never cheapens his companies or productions when they go on tour. He is not addicted to "number two" companies.

At the Royal Victoria Theatre on November 2 and 13, with a Thanksgiving matinee on Monday afternoon, Mr. Hammerstein will present the world's best musical play, "Rose Marie."

The composers of "Rose Marie" are Rudolf Friml and Herbert Stothart. The book and lyrics are by Oscar Hammerstein and Otto Harbach. The really fine cast supplied by Mr. Hammerstein for the interpretation of "Rose Marie" includes Virginia Fox, Nirva Nirska, Peggy Pates, Daisy Gibson, Paul Donah, Houston Richards, Charles Meakins, Ross Gibson, Sano Marco, Cliff Wilson, and others.

"Rose Marie" is a story of romantic love and intrigue in the Canadian Rockies, with the Saskatchewan River and colorful Northwest Mounted Police as its background.
